

U.S. must stay in Asia until PWs free--Nixon

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said Friday night American forces must remain in Southeast Asia until U.S. prisoners are freed and South Vietnam has at least a chance to prevent a Communist takeover, declaring "we have cards, too, and we intend to play them right to the hilt."

Nixon stressed the plight of American prisoners of North Vietnam in saying that a residual force including U.S. airpower will remain there.

He said that force, and the prospect of American air strikes, would be an incentive for release of the prisoners.

The President said his goal is total withdrawal, but first the prisoners must be released, and the South Vietnamese must "develop the capacity to defend themselves against a Communist takeover, not the sure capacity, but at least a chance."

Answering the questions of a six-member panel before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Nixon also said the next step toward improved relations with Communist China is up to the Chinese.

"If they want to have trade in these many areas that we've opened up, we're ready," he said. "If they want to have Chinese come to the United States, we're ready."

He said the administration also is ready to see Americans travel to China — indeed, told of discussing with his daughters a hope that they will one day be able to visit that nation.

But the President said he would not speculate or discuss the possibility of diplomatic recognition or of Chinese membership in the United Nations. He said that would be premature, that the improvement of relations requires a steady, ordered process.

The President also:

— Defended his intervention in the case of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., saying his action calmed public fears by assuring a fair final review of Calley's murder conviction.

— Retorted to criticism of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, saying much of it has been unfair and malicious.

— Said American actions

Muskie on campaign trail

Demands FBI open files

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, launched his New Hampshire presidential drive in a mid-April snowstorm Friday by demanding the Nixon administration make public the FBI's report on 40 to 60 Earth Day rallies last year.

"Let us judge for ourselves after examination of all of them," Muskie told a news conference when asked about Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell's assertion that any FBI spying at the antipollution rallies was aimed at those who might cause violence or criminal acts.

The Maine Democrat, considered a frontrunner for his party's 1972 presidential nomination, renewed his charge that the FBI activity smacked of "political surveillance of activities of citizens who express themselves, engage in protests on public questions."

Two days ago, Muskie released what he said was the FBI report on Earth Day activities in Washington, D.C. He said similar spying occurred at 40 to 60 other rallies. He noted Friday that the administration has not denied the validity of that report.

Later, during a question-and-answer session with students at Central High School in this industrial city, Muskie was asked whether he would fire FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover if elected president.

"Using that inevitable Northern New England tact and diplomacy," he said, "I would ask him to resign."

In Washington, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said some people are trying to "create fear and intimidation."

LBJ snooping practices bared

By RICHARD HALLORAN

WASHINGTON — Documents indicating the extent of the involvement of President Johnson and his attorney general, Ramsey Clark, in the governmental surveillance of political dissidents have been obtained here from government officials.

The documents also show that Joseph A. Califano, who was a special assistant to President Johnson, and Paul H. Nitze, who was the deputy secretary of defense, also helped plan the domestic intelligence effort at the time of civil disturbances in 1967 and 1968.

ACCORDING to the documents, meetings were held at the White House and interdepartmental memorandums were exchanged in an effort to increase the flow of information on civil rights activists, black militants and antiwar protesters.

The origin of governmental surveillance practices has become an issue here as a result of a congressional investigation and mounting public debate over federal dossiers on private citizens.

Clark, informed of the statements and documents connecting him with military and civilian intelligence operations, said: "That's just not true. I don't care what the documents say." In response to specific questions, however, he acknowledged that agents of the FBI have gathered information on potential and known dissidents.

But he added: "I can tell you that I have no recollection of anyone telling me that military personnel were used in surveillance of civilians." He said that "if someone in the administration says so, they should be prepared to document it."

CALIFANO, in a separate interview, said, "I have no knowledge of any surveillance of civilians." Referring to an Army intelligence watch on political dissidents, he added: "I have no recollection of anyone ever telling the agents of the FBI have gathered information on

IRS apologizes for cartoon of debt-ridden taxpayer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)

The Internal Revenue Service apologized Friday for an advertisement cartooning an elderly taxpayer, who is ridden with medical debt, as a man wearing only a barrel and a necktie.

The ad, three columns wide, was run in the Santa Cruz Sentinel Sunday to announce an auction of the taxpayer's golf clubs and cart and his watch.

IN ONE corner was a jutting forefinger over which block letters screamed, "YOU!" In the center, a large gavel smashes an auction block to pieces.

The man-in-the-barrel illustration appeared next to the identification of the taxpayers whose goods had been seized — Richard L. Goodell and his wife, Pauline.

Goodell, 60, is a respected tax accountant in Mountain View who is $2,719.46 in arrears largely because of heavy medical bills resulting from a long-term serious illness of his wife, 55.

Charles E. Kingman, assistant district IRS director, said he was "upset." The IRS usually runs small print legal ads rather than display ads.

Mrs. Goodell said the ad has humiliated and degraded her husband and two daughters in college. "The barrel was an insult," she said. Under a verbal agreement with one IRS official, she said the couple paid $500 in February and arranged to pay all their debt by April 30.

BUT MARCH 30 another IRS agent, Keith Ottenfeld, 29, seized the Goodell's 1966 Chevrolet in their driveway, they said. The golf equipment in the trunk was also seized, but 11 dirty shirts were returned.

According to Mrs. Goodell, her husband went to see Ottenfeld and, extending his hands, asked, "What do you want?" Then she said, Ottenfeld replied: "I'll take that watch."

Donate Oscar? Scott approves of idea

George C. Scott's unwanted Oscar may yet find a home — in the George S. Patton Museum at Fort Knox, Ky.

The actor won the Academy award for best actor Thursday night for his role in "Patton," but has repeatedly declared he would refuse the Oscar, calling the awards "a meat parade."

The academy said it would not send the Oscar to him unless he asked for it.

Asked Friday on location at Metropolitan Hospital in New York about his earlier statement that he would give the Oscar to the "Blood and Guts" general's museum, Scott said:

"It would probably be a good idea."

"I have no feeling about it one way or another," said the actor, who has grown a beard for his role as Dr. Herbert Bock, head of medicine at a large hospital in United Artists' "Hospital." He added that he was surprised to receive the honor. He was the only actor ever to refuse a nomination in the Academy's 43-year history.

Scott, who will be on location for about three months, said, "My son woke me up this morning and told me I had won."

A bid for the Oscar also was made by a proposed George S. Patton Memorial Center in the San Gabriel Valley of California where the World War II hero spent his boyhood.

Glenda Jackson, named best actress of the year for her role in "Women in Love," said in London: "I'll probably give my mother the Oscar. She is better at dusting than I am."

The British actress said she had been awakened by a telephone call from actress Bette Davis in the United States. Miss Jackson expressed delight over her victory:

"I hadn't expected the best actress award would go to a British actress this year, since Maggie Smith won it last year," she said. "But I couldn't help hoping a little. I was honestly surprised to find how pleased

Pope, pop

Long-haired boys in tight blue jeans, two girls in hot pants and a youth in a Superman sweater were among a group of 50 persons who met Pope Paul Friday in an unusual audience in one of the Vatican's most splendid halls.

The 73-year-old pontiff granted the audience to the group, including French, English, Canadian and Italian singers and actors, to show his appreciation for a Rome peace and brotherhood show called "Only one color in the world."

The group met with the Pope in the richly-decorated Sala Clementina where the Pope and President Nixon exchanged speeches last year.

John Bedson, a 25-year-old from Liverpool who plays drums for a six-man English pop group called "Warm Dust," said he asked the Pope to help the cause of peace by working for an end to military conscription.

"I'll remember what you have suggested," Bedson said the Pope replied.

One member of the pop group, singer Leslie Walker, 22, wore a black Superman sweater with a big red letter "S" on the front.

Many of the youths wore tight blue jeans and hair tumbling down to their shoulders. Two girls wore hot pants, the target of Vatican criticism two days ago, but the shorts were almost completely hidden under maxi-coats.

Windblown

British adventurer John Fairfax once again delayed his rowboat trip across the Pacific Friday, this time because of high winds through the Golden Gate. His girlfriend, Sylvia Cook, 33, said, "I'm fed up with waiting."

"I'm more disappointed than anyone else," said Fairfax, 33. "But to get out of the Golden Gate with a 35-knot wind blowing is absolutely impossible."

Dino nuptials

Dino Martin, son of singer Dean Martin, and dark-haired British beauty Olivia Hussey, the Juliet of the film "Romeo and Juliet," will be married tonight in Las Vegas, Nev., spokesman said Friday in Hollywood.

Boston Pops

Fire engine fancier Arthur Fielder set the pace for a swinging Boston Pops performance Friday night by arriving for the concert in a gleaming hook and ladder truck.

"Great ride," the snowy-haired conductor beamed to the laughing and applauding crowd in front of Bonn's Beethoven Hall before disappearing through a side entrance.

Bandleader Stan Kenton was released from University of California Los Angeles Medical Center Friday following exploratory stomach surgery earlier this week. Kenton said doctors were looking for a possible tumor or ulcer but didn't find anything.

Mayor Stokes says he won't seek reelection

Combined News Services

CLEVELAND — Mayor Carl B. Stokes, in a surprise move, Friday night announced he will not seek reelection. Stokes, 43, said he intended to finish his current term, which expires shortly after the Nov. 2 general election, but would not disclose his future plans.

The mayor, who in 1967 was the first Negro to be elected mayor of a major metropolitan city, said he wishes to expand his efforts beyond Cleveland "to assist others, particularly the locked-in minority groups, to better understand their role in politics and government." The an-

S. Viets attack A Shau Valley

SAIGON — South Vietnamese forces have launched a new drive into the A Shau Valley, long an enemy base area and infiltration route in the north, officials said Friday. Troops of the American 101st Airborne Division flew into the valley Wednesday and set up Fire Base Fury to provide heavy artillery support for the South Vietnamese. They were withdrawn Friday, presumably after unleashing heavy barrages to soften up enemy positions.

The purpose of the drive is to sweep up enemy supply bases, but no significant contacts were reported.

The comments, reported here by correspondents, coincided with a flurry of consultations in Moscow between Soviet officials and visiting Mideast leaders.

Instant rice

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon has spent about $30 million to feed the South Vietnamese army U.S.-grown instant rice, even though their country is considered one of the world's biggest rice bowls. Two more instant rice contracts totaling $12.7 million were awarded by the Defense Department earlier this week to U.S. firms.

The South Vietnamese army gets its rice rations from the United States because the Vietnamese don't have rice processing facilities of their own, explained Robert Graff, an official of the Defense Personnel Support Center in Philadelphia. With the U.S. product, all a trooper needs to do is pull a plastic bag of rice from his field rations, add water and eat.

Rail pay hikes

WASHINGTON — A presidential board has recommended pay hikes up to 42 per cent over the next 42 months for railroad signalmen who had threatened a nationwide strike. The proposal could form the basis of a contract agreement in negotiations between the National Railway Labor Conference and the Brotherhood of Railway Signalmen which represents 10,000 signalmen. At the same time Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson has ruled that railroads must pay full wages and benefits for up to six years to any workers laid off or demoted because of passenger service cutbacks under the new Railpax system.

Plan outlined for huge airport outside L.B.-L.A. breakwater

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

A gigantic offshore air-sea facility on the ocean side of the present Long Beach-Los Angeles harbor breakwater would make it unnecessary to use Long Beach Airport for commercial operations, a proponent of the project said Friday.

The proposed airport on a 10,000-acre landfill seaward of the breakwater, first disclosed by the Independent, Press-Telegram last October, also would be the world's safest, according to Don W. Green, president of an engineering firm which has conducted a $300,000 preliminary study.

"It would have 12,500-foot runways, with over-water approaches at each end," Green explained at a joint news conference in Los Angeles with Assemblyman Mike Cullen, Long Beach.

Cullen announced that his office in Sacramento simultaneously was introducing a bill in the Legislature to pursue development of the offshore facility.

Cullen's proposal calls for the formation of a three-county authority to seek financing for the venture, which he estimated would "approach $1 billion" in cost for the landfill alone.

THE seven-man authority, designated the Southern California Air Terminal agency (SCAT), would be composed of the state's secretary of transportation and six elected officials, two each from Los Angeles, Orange and San Diego counties.

Cullen said the SCAT agency would apply for private and public funding for the project, including congressional appropriations.

"Seed money obviously will have to be from federal sources," the Long Beach Democrat said. "It could also be augmented by matching state funds, on a 15 per cent to 85 per cent federal basis. A revenue bond issue is another possibility."

Cullen listed the federal Model Cities Act and the Department of Housing and Urban Development as appropriate sources. Because the project would employ more than 20,000 in its first year, rising to 56,000 by the third, Cullen said the plan "complements Gov. Reagan's plan to stimulate private industry."

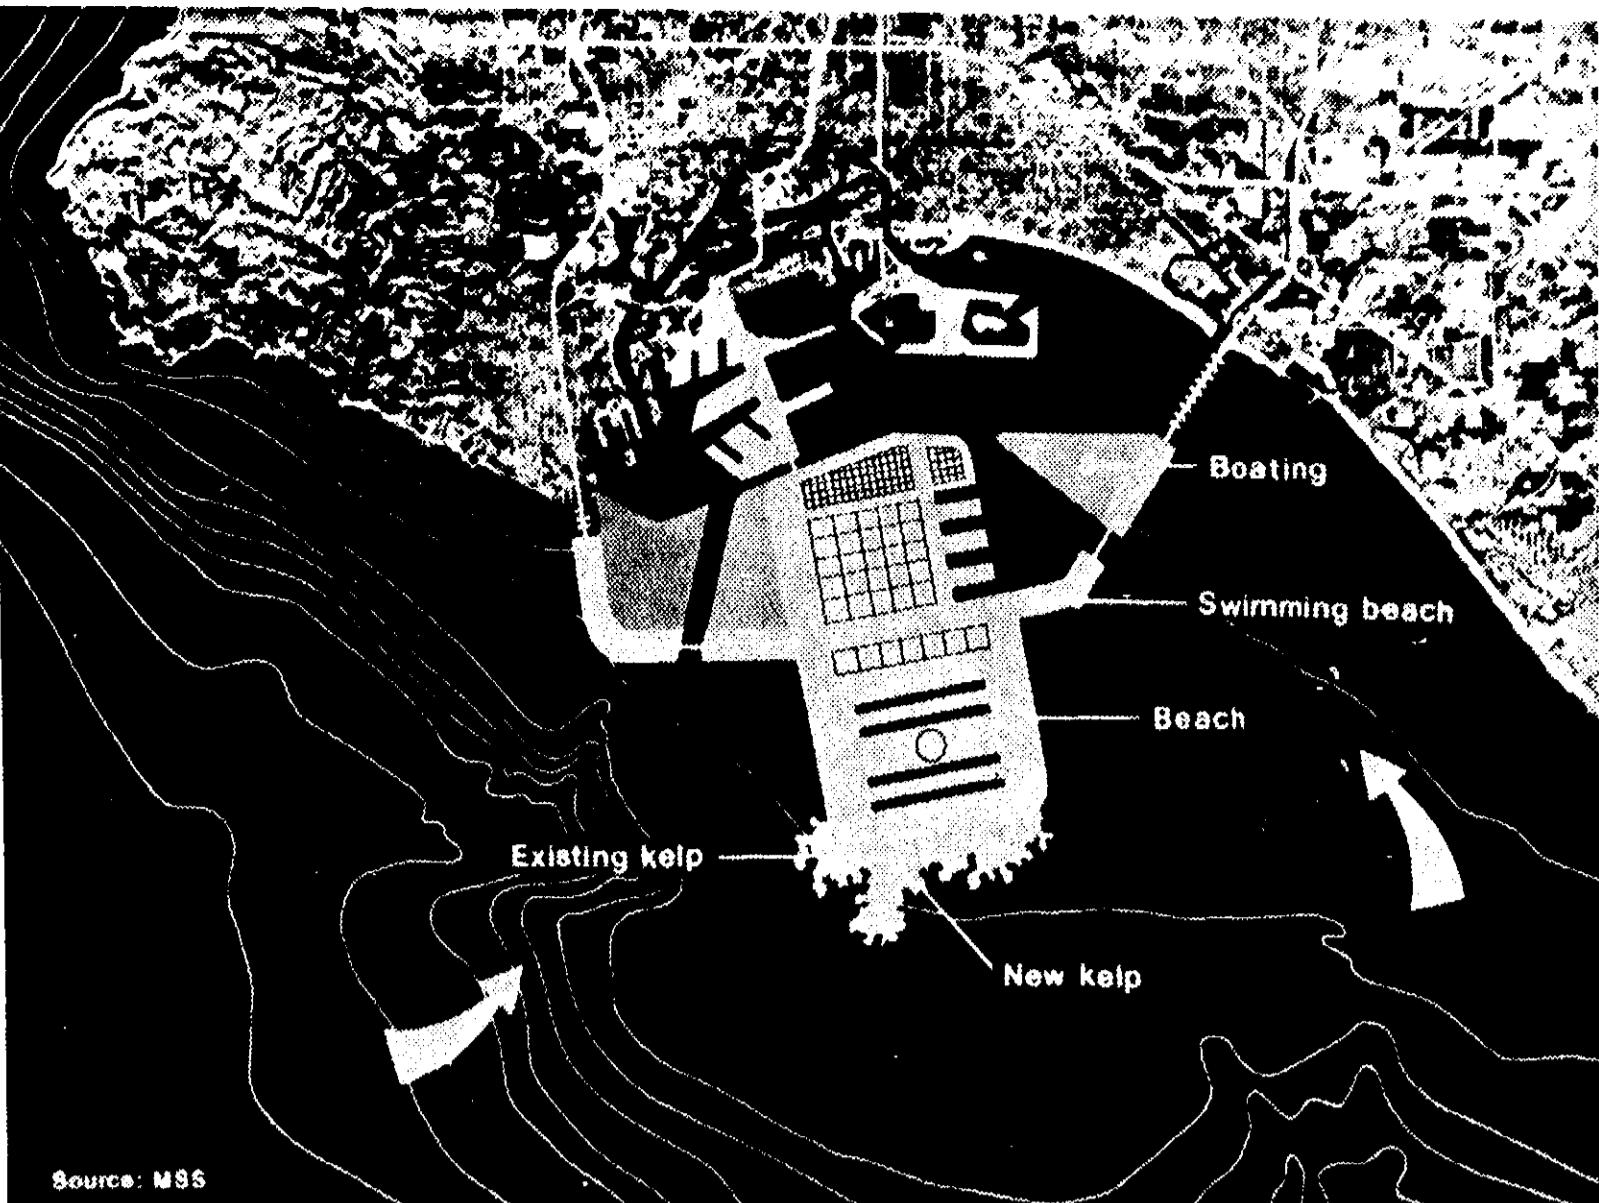

GREEN estimated the initial cost for engineering and research at $150 million, and said the airport could be operational within 2½ years on an accelerated program.

The offshore airport was first proposed last fall by Green's firm, Macro Synetics Systems Inc. of Canoga Park. Its preliminary studies under a $50,000 grant continued with additional company funding totaling $250,000 in engineering time, Green said.

The initial study indicates the feasibility of the project, the engineering firm president said. The plan calls for causeway and bridge approaches to the huge offshore island, connecting with present rail terminals and the Long Beach, Harbor and San Gabriel freeways.

THE closest land point in the normal approach pattern would be a minimum of 8½ miles away from the airport, Green said.

Takoff patterns to the west would come no closer than two miles off the Palos Verdes Peninsula shoreline, he added.

$8.3 million more funding held vital Medical Center jam-up told

By NOEL SWANN
From Our L.A. Bureau

A breakdown of services at the County-USC Medical Center is "imminent" and an immediate $8.3-million injection of funds is needed to restore an adequate care level.

This is the diagnosis and prescribed treatment of the County Hospital Commission in a report to supervisors released Friday.

The commission said all professional and technical vacancies (an estimated 500) should also be filled immediately and the center must continue to route the less seriously ill — particularly drug and alcoholism cases — to other county facilities, such as Long Beach General Hospital.

Major cause of the overcrowding, doctors, nurses and technicians are finding it difficult to cope with the needs of the patients. Consequently, the report says, they are "frustrated, angry, rebellious, and many are leaving the employ of the hospital."

It says the emergency or "red blanket" cases are given immediate attention and the finest of care. But other types of patients may experience long delays and may have to be discharged before receiving sufficient care and treatment.

The commission said the staff shortage is particularly felt among laboratory technicians. And operating costs at the center are continuing to soar because of the use of outside laboratory and contract hospital facilities.

It also said efforts to relieve the overcrowding by referring patients to Long Beach General and Rancho Los Amigos in Downey, have been insufficient.

The commission's probe was made in response to charges by a small group of young doctors who claimed in a newspaper report Dec. 16 that "patients die because they bleed to death before being seen" and that "20 patients have died because of such neglect."

A SPOKESMAN for the group, Dr. David Gans, also claimed in the article that some patients become permanently paralyzed from auto accidents injuries because they are not attended to right away.

A special committee met with the dissident doctors, hospital officials and other doctors on a number of occasions and in a report to the commission concluded that the charges of death and paralysis due to neglect were unfounded.

However, everyone interviewed agreed there were serious problems at the center, the committee reported.

Among the findings of the committee were:

— There is a "grave" shortage of nurses due to the county's freeze on hiring.

— Despite the transfer of alcoholics to Long Beach General, where 100 beds are set aside, alcoholic wards at the Medical Center still are jammed because "the supply of alcoholics is inexhaustible." (More than 1,000 alcoholics come through admitting each month, the report says.)

— All the medical wards are overcrowded because of Medi-Cal cutbacks and the extra patient load created by destruction of Ol-

New safety measures stressed

From Our L.A. Bureau

The ordeal of a Lomita girl, trapped for 5½ hours in a piling hole last January, has sparked new safety measures on county flood control district projects.

In a report to supervisors Friday, the district's chief engineer A. E. Brunington, said five-foot restraining fences will be put up on one side of all future construction projects in residential areas.

He said presently all excavations within 500 feet of schools, parks and other areas where children congregate, are enclosed.

But storm drains that are cut in residential streets have not been fenced.

He said since the near-tragedy involving three-year-old Alycia Hernandez, the district has considered it necessary to block off all street drain jobs on the side away from the traffic.

Supervisors will consider the report Tuesday.

Auto-fraud arraignment set

Nine men charged with conspiring to defraud customers in 12 gas stations they owned or operated in Orange County will be arraigned in Superior Court May 27.

The nine were indicted earlier by the Orange County Grand Jury.

A 17-year-old youth, believed by police to be a relative of one of the four owners of the stations will be arraigned in Juvenile Court on April 26. He is Jeffrey E. Kendall, 17, of Santa Ana.

His unestablished kin, Jerry Kendall, 35, of 969 Sonora Road, Costa Mesa, was one of the owners, along with Stanley Davis, 32, of 1086 San Pablo Circle, Costa Mesa; Edward Carney, 27, of 20862 Shell Harbor Circle, Huntington Beach, and Roger Mendenhall, 28, of 26595 Avenida DeSeo, Mission Viejo.

The grand jury contend- ed that the station owners and employees damaged parts of cars they got on the grease racks, and misrepresented the condition of tires and other items on the automobiles to sell new products.

Employes indicted include Ralph Carney, 29, of

The grand jury claimed that customers lost hundreds of thousands of dollars at these stations.

Measles cases threaten births

An outbreak of rubella (German measles) in Long Beach threatens to be responsible for a significant number of birth defects that could have been avoided, Dr. I. D. Litwack, Long Beach health officer, said Friday.

Dr. Litwack said the city has 161 reported rubella cases so far this year compared to only 26 up to this time last year.

Many of the cases have occurred during the past few weeks, the city health officer said.

Although rubella is a relatively mild disease, its danger is that infected pregnant women may bear a child with malformations.

Dr. Litwack estimated that only 43 per cent of susceptible children aged 1 to 12 years have been immunized against the disease.

"That's a fair record," he commented, "but it's not good enough."

Long Beach recently staged a mass immunization program against rubella.

Dr. Litwack said that part of the trouble in getting persons to seek immunizations for their children is that many individuals confuse rubella (German measles) with rubella (common measles).

There is a vaccine to protect against each disease, but inoculation with rubella vaccine does not protect against rubella, and vice versa.

Youngsters are the main reservoir for the rubella virus, and physicians recommend that they be immunized to prevent their conveying the causative virus to women of childbearing age.

Berkeley gets new chancellor

Associated Press

Albert H. Bowker was named chancellor of the Berkeley campus of the University of California on Friday, replacing Roger W. Heyns, who resigned last fall to return to academic work at the University of Michigan.

Bowker, 51, whose appointment was announced by regent chairman William French Smith, has been chancellor of the City University of New York since 1963.

A mathematics and statistics specialist, he previously served as an administrator and professor at Columbia University in New York and Stanford University.

The action by UC regents meeting in Los Angeles ended a five-month search for a replacement for Heyns, 52, who suffered a heart attack last July and announced his resignation in November, saying the job was too demanding for him.

Heyns, whose resignation becomes effective June 30, is returning to the University of Michigan — where he once served as vice president for academic affairs — to be a psychology professor.

Teens ask lottery for school support

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California should establish a lottery to help pay for its educational system, a student commission told the State Board of Education Friday.

Local property tax payers have been overloaded, teen-aged representatives from the 37-member Student Advisory Board on Education said, and "now is the time to pry open sources, open our eyes to untapped sources."

BOARD members told the students the lottery idea and other suggestions would be submitted to board committees for consideration.

Along with the lottery, the students suggested the board push for added taxes on alcohol and tobacco.

U.S. gives Reagan welfare deadline

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan said Friday he has been told by federal welfare secretary Elliot Richardson that California has until June 30 to conform with federal welfare regulations.

State Welfare Director Robert Carleton is preparing emergency regulations he said would bring the state into conformity. He said they would be ready for adoption by May 1.

Reagan said the June 30 deadline would give the Legislature "more than enough time" to enact his welfare reform package, which the governor contends would settle the conformity question and eliminate the need for Carleton's regulations.

The commitment from Richardson came in a telephone call Friday, Reagan said.

Earlier, the Reagan administration said it would appeal a Sacramento County Superior Court order to immediately raise welfare payments by 21 per cent under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has contended since last year that California is out of conformity with federal law because it has failed to make cost-of-living raises to welfare families.

HEW has threatened to cut off up to $700 million in federal welfare aid unless the state changed its payment schedule.

L.A. cop pleads guilty in disrobing-search case

Associated Press

Peter J. Lupton, one of five Los Angeles policemen charged with federal civil rights violations, pleaded guilty Friday in a surprise appearance at U.S. District Court in Los Angeles.

Lupton, 27, who resigned from the police force March 11, had been charged with violating the constitutional rights of a young Chinese-American woman last May 18 by forcing her to disrobe for a search in his patrol car.

"Are you pleading guilty because you in fact are guilty?" asked Judge Warren Ferguson.

"Yes," replied Lupton, a five-year veteran on the force. He had been scheduled to go on trial next Tuesday. He faces a maximum penalty of a year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

In a hearing lasting only five minutes, the judge asked the slender officer to explain what happened during the disrobing incident.

Lupton said he was on a night patrol in Los Angeles' Chinatown area and that he stopped a car "without probable cause."

He said a man and a woman were in the car.

He said a man and a woman — identified in the grand jury indictment against him as Miss May Ling Lu — go to the police station with him for a search, but that she was reluctant to do so.

"I suggested she submit to search in the vehicle (his patrol car.)" Lupton said. He said she exposed parts of her body, but didn't fully undress. He denied that he touched her.

Middle-class youth sentences increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The number of middle-class youngsters sentenced to the California Youth Authority is increasing while the number from minority races is decreasing, a survey showed Friday.

In 1965, the CYA said 65.7 per cent of the committed wards were from below-average homes, 28.3 per cent from average homes and six per cent from above-average homes.

Last year the commitments from below-average families was 54.3 per cent, from average families 37.7 per cent and from above-average families eight per cent.

The 10-year survey showed that during the early 1960s there was "a trend of increases in the percentages of minorities committed to CYA, but this trend has been reversed since 1965."

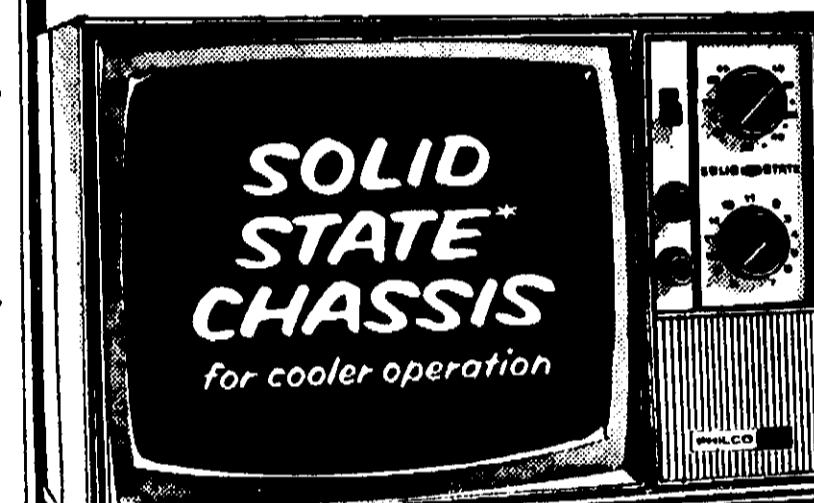

In 1961, 58 per cent were Caucasian, 18.4 per cent were Mexican-American and 22.3 per cent were Negro. In 1965, the totals were 51.5 per cent white, 18.6 per cent Mexican-American and 27.9 per cent black.

The proportion of whites rose to 55.4 per cent in 1970, while the Mexican-American number dropped to 17.3 per cent and Negro decreased to 24.8 per cent.

The CYA also reported the number of first admissions declined sharply since 1965 when a peak of 6,190 was reached. The total dropped to 3,746 in 1970. The decrease was attributed to the probation subsidy program in which counties are reimbursed by the state to treat delinquents in the community.

Drug violators among teen-agers rose from 4.5 per cent in 1961 to 19.3 per cent last year.

NIXON RECEIVES BULL FROM N.Y. STOCK EXCHANGE PRESIDENT
Bernard Lasker, Left, Said Award Signified Improving Economic Condition

—AP Wirephoto

Wall Street gives President 'bull award' for fiscal policy

WASHINGTON — A delegation of three of President Nixon's Wall Street friends went to the White House Friday to tell him they are finding the economy very much better. They presented him a toy-sized stuffed leather bull, symbol of a booming market.

Bernard Lasker, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, making the presentation of the "1971 model bull," told Nixon the visit was to express appreciation for what Lasker said the President has done to turn the economy around.

Lasker said that a year ago a group from Wall Street came to the White House to express concern over the economy and the down-turning market. Now, said Lasker, things are "very much better."

Joining in were Al Gordon, senior partner of Kidder Peabody, and Don Regan, chairman of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith.

Nixon accepted the stuffed leather bull, about two feet long, but laughingly noted that presenting a bull to a man in the stock market was a "good omen," while presenting it to a man in politics might have another meaning.

The President said of the economy: "I think next year is going to be a very good year." And then he added with a smile, "It better be."

Gordon told the President it wasn't just institutional buying that was giving the stock market a lift, but that millions of individuals were showing "very tremendous confidence in your program."

Gordon said he considered the buying by individuals as "very widespread endorsement, in my opinion, of what you are doing and what you have done." He said the situation economically was "dramatically changed from a year ago."

Nixon replied that he was trying to build a solid base. "It would be easy to go for new gimmicks that would goose up the economy and then bring it down." Referring to the rise in the Gross National Product for the first quarter of 1971, Nixon said he felt the economy was on a strong course.

Regan added that the individual buying in the market was in "good stocks" and he referred to it as "a blue chip market."

WASHINGTON — Some of organized labor's political leaders are bravely a few kisses to woo youths into a mass vote drive that almost certainly will be aimed at ousting President Nixon in 1972.

"Please don't get us sidetracked with side issues that divide us like legalizing homosexuality, legalizing pot and abortion, amnesty for draft age men who went to Canada or Sweden, or reparations for the Viet Cong," pleaded AFL-CIO political director Al Barkan to a youth vote conference.

Stick with voter issues of education, health, housing, minimum wage and economics and "we can make beautiful music together," the 60-year-old Barkan urged the youthful conference who discussed registration of soon-to-be 18-year-old voters.

ONE YOUNG girl hissed when Matt Reese, portly and fiftyish political consultant, said "girls in short skirts" are a necessary campaign aid along with sound trucks, leaflets and coffee klatches.

But she later smiled and applauded Reese's advice to seek out youth groups wherever they congregate and get them to register.

"Once they leave the pot party, they're just like everybody else — they're hard to find. They're like 45-year-old Catholic women — you can never find them except on Ash Wednesday," Reese said. He called it the "KTTTS" principle — "Keep them together, stupid."

ANOTHER speaker's advice that the youths avoid

"the cheap thrills . . . of the New Left fringe" also brought some hisses at last week's labor-backed Conference on the Youth Vote sponsored by the A. Philip Randolph Institute. The institute is named for the former president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

But the 100 or so young conference generally applauded advice to concentrate on political issues, including poverty, racism and social issues, and not to isolate youths into a separate voter group.

Barkan, long-time political speechmaker from the older generation's stem-winder school, drew a few frowns when he blamed college youth for the riots at the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

BUT HIS general pitch of an alliance between older and younger generations, labor and minority groups, was generally applauded.

"We can't win by ourselves so we're for alliances," Barkan said of the 13.6-million-member labor federation that backed Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey in his losing 1968 presidential campaign against Nixon.

The AFL-CIO, headed by 76-year-old George Meany, has not yet endorsed a 1972 presidential candidate, but Meany has been stepping up an attack on Nixon's inflation and unemployment policies.

The labor federation, while claiming to be nonpartisan, always winds up in the Democratic camp in presidential elections although supporting a number of Republican congressional candidates.

Evelyn Dubrow, diminutive and vivacious lobbyist for the AFL-CIO Ladies Garment Workers, urged the youths to work at the precinct level in registering voters, and not to get discouraged at political setbacks.

"Except for a few hyperthyroid adults, youths have one thing going for them — energy," she said.

"Eighteen-year-olds can push more doorbells than 30-year-olds," said the fiftyish Miss Dubrow.

"Go into working-class neighborhoods, go into precinct political clubs. If some maggoty old political hack doesn't want you, he'll have to accept you," she said.

Many firms to take loss themselves

Credit-card users may get bonus

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's credit-card users may be getting an unexpected bonus from a new law limiting their liability if their cards are lost or stolen.

The reason: many credit card firms have decided to take the loss themselves rather than notify all cardholders of their new rights.

As of Jan. 24, credit-card holders are not liable for any losses resulting from stolen or lost cards if they notify the issuer before anything is charged. Even if the card is used before notification takes place, the cardholder's liability cannot exceed $50.

There's another wrinkle to the 1970 law, however.

The credit-card issuer must notify the holder of his liability and furnish the cardholder with a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reporting a lost or stolen card. Without such notification, the holder can't lose a penny under any circumstances.

An Associated Press survey of government, consumer groups, credit-card issuers and credit-card holders shows compliance with the notification provisions among issuers is apparently spotty at best.

Sheldon Feldman, an attorney in the consumer credit division of the Federal Trade Commission, says noncompliance with the notification provisions is widespread, even among the big card issuers.

"Thus far many issuers have indirectly indicated an indifference to their ability to collect by not taking the necessary measures under the law," said Consumers Union.

American Express, a pioneer in the charge-card field, said it sent notification of the new liability in the form of an insertion in billing statements. Bills also bear on the back a notification of the $50 maximum liability.

But an American Express spokesman conceded some inactive accounts which haven't received a bill since January haven't received the notification. The cost of a special mailing would have been prohibitive, the spokesman said.

A spokesman for San Francisco's Bank of America, originator of the BankAmericard, said the bank did not feel spending the money to notify each of its 2 million cardholders in California was worthwhile. New card recipients in California, however, will receive notification. Other banks issuing BankAmericard are making their own decisions.

Sears, Roebuck and Co. said: "We do not plan to notify our customers as it never has been our policy to collect for cards which have been fraudulently used."

The FTC's Feldman fears that many credit-card holders don't understand their new rights.

"The majority of issuers, mostly through inadvertence, continue to put the wrong information on the back of the card," said Feldman.

One consumer contacted by the AP showed an American Express card is sued a month ago. The card was still inscribed with the old American Express policy of a $100 maximum liability from loss or theft.

Feldman said the FTC hasn't received any complaints about failure to notify them of their new rights. "People just don't know about it," he said.

FCC says it didn't set dope-song ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission, trying to clarify an order that raised a storm of protest, said Friday it had never banned the playing of songs about drugs over radio and television.

But in restating its position on drug-oriented lyrics, the commission again refused to rule out the possibility that broadcasters who do play such songs might jeopardize the renewal of their licenses.

IN TURNING down petitions by a group of broadcasters for reconsideration of its March 5 order, the FCC said, "nothing in the prior notice stated, directly or indirectly, that a licensee is barred from presenting a particular type of record."

But the commission again said: "Clearly in a time when there is an epidemic of illegal drug use, the licensee should not be indifferent to the question of whether his facilities are being used to promote the illegal use of harmful drugs."

The FCC said the March 5 order had been widely misinterpreted and said some broadcasters had been unnecessarily banning records on their stations.

"We have noted the arguments that some licensees have dropped all records referring to drugs in erroneous reaction to our notice. If that is the case, we trust that with the issuance of this opinion such licensees will cease such grossly inappropriate policy and rather will make a judgement based on the particular record."

COMMISSIONER Nicholas Johnson, who dissented from the March 5 notice and claimed it was an effort to censor what music was played, again dissented on Friday's clarification.

In its clarification the FCC said: "The thrust of the notice is simply that in South Vietnam and neighboring nations will save more civilian lives there than they have cost.

NIXON ON VIET WAR

"... If the United States were to fail in Vietnam, if the Communists were to take over, the bloodbath that would follow would be a blot on this nation's history..." Nixon said.

— Forecast growing confidence in the U.S. economy, and said "I believe at this time we are going to see a strong second half particularly, and a very, very strong 1972."

— Said that he plans his next announcement of U.S. troop withdrawals from South Vietnam in October. The White House press office said later the President misspoke here — that he meant to say by mid-November.

— Defended the performance of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, calling him an effective emissary abroad and one of the administration's best salesmen for domestic programs such as revenue sharing.

For an hour, Nixon stood answering the questions of the black-tie panel of newspaper editors and White House correspondents in a program carried by the radio networks.

The questioners were Emmett Dedmon, editorial director of the Chicago Sun-Times and Daily News; William B. Dickinson, executive editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin; Sylvan Meyer, editor of the Miami News; Otis Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times; Frank Cormier of The Associated Press, and Eugene V. Risher of United Press International.

Nixon said there is no conflict between the goal of withdrawal from Southeast Asia and the statement of Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird that U.S. air and naval forces will remain in the area.

HE SAID Laird referred to the American posture "pending the time" that prisoners are released and South Vietnam is in a position to defend herself.

The Nixon interview, at the society's formal banquet, was broadcast by the CBS, NBC and Mutual Broadcasting radio networks. The White House ruled out live television broadcast of the interview.

"WE HAVE had a pretty difficult experience with the North Vietnamese, who have without question been the most barbaric of any modern nation in their handling of prisoners," Nixon said.

Nixon, incidentally, referred to Calley as "Captain Calley," an apparent slip.

NIXON described Capt. Aubrey Daniel, prosecutor of Calley who criticized Nixon's announcement that he will make the final decision in the case, as "a fine officer."

He said he respects the members of the military court, but acted to free Calley from the stockade pending appeals because "there was concern around the nation."

He said his steps were consistent with military justice, and were similar to letting a civilian out on bail pending appeals.

Back on Indochina, Nixon was asked if he has any reason to believe that North Vietnam would not use U.S. prisoners as hostages far into the future.

ACTION LINE

Cycle of confusion

Q. I traded in my 1970 Honda 350cc for a 1964 Triumph 500cc motorcycle at Dale Brown Motorcycles, 2441 Long Beach Blvd. The side panel on the Triumph had T100 on it, designating the bike as a 500cc. I got $425 for my Honda and made a down payment of $80.95. Less than a week later I had trouble with the bike and Dale Brown's fixed it. However, it was still cutting out so I took it to another mechanic who took it apart and found the bike was a 350cc, not a 500cc. I went back to Dale Brown's and asked for a refund for the full price of the Triumph, $700. After having his mechanic check the bike, Brown agreed it was a 350cc. He offered me the price of the bike, minus a month's depreciation and the amount I still owed him, if I'd bring it back. I don't think this is fair, since the bike was represented to me as something it wasn't. Can ACTION LINE help? A.L.P., Long Beach.

A. No. ACTION LINE contacted Dale Brown, who said "I think my offer is fair, considering the circumstances. We did not intentionally sell him the wrong motorcycle. It was an honest mistake. Since he used the Triumph for some time I think he should pay what would amount to a month's rental fee on it. I was financing it for him and he still owes me $200. If he'll bring the cycle back in the same condition it was in when he bought it, I will give him $600 cash, minus the $200 he still owes."

Anti-pigeon

Q. About six years ago, I bought a product called "Roost No More" which is a repellent that is sprayed on roofs to keep pigeons away. I recently had a new roof put on, and I would like to buy another can of this product, but I don't know who manufactures it or where I can buy it locally. E.W., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE couldn't find any store locally that carries the product but you can order it by mail from the distributor in Los Angeles. For each can, send $4 to Blakely Bros. Corp., 8527 Melrose Ave., Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. The price includes tax and mailing costs.

Solon taped, not tapped

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Roszel Thomsen released documents Friday showing that an FBI informer recorded conversations with Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., who was indicted last year in an alleged $25,000 bribery conspiracy.

Thomsen pointed out that the papers do not show that Dowdy's telephones were tapped. He said the recording was done with the informer's knowledge and consent at his end of the line.

Thomsen said the papers "were sealed by the court and not made part of the public file at the request of the attorneys for the congressman."

"The attorneys for the government have at all times taken the position that these papers should have been made public," he said.

"Nothing about the Dowdy case is contrary in any way to the statements of Justice Department officials that 'the FBI has not tapped the telephone of any member of the House or Senate, now or in the past.'

MUSKIE RAPS FBI

Muskie has no organization among the people of this country by questioning FBI surveillance activities.

He said that putting together a national political organization has "been a difficult, agonizing and frustrating" task.

Muskie announced that John F. English, a leading New York Democrat who played a major part in the presidential campaigns of John and Robert Kennedy, has gone to work for him as a full-time political operator.

English, a 44-year-old lawyer who now is Democratic national committee man for New York, will work out of the senator's Washington office on a national basis.

Muskie aides said several others would work on a regional basis, one of them Maine national committee man George Mitchell, a longtime Muskie confidante, who will coordinate the campaign in New Hampshire.

Muskie said raising money for a national campaign has been a problem.

Muskie is the second Democratic hopeful to respond to New Hampshire party leaders' invitation in the earliest start ever of campaigning for the state's presidential primary next March 14, the first in the nation.

Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, the only announced Democratic candidate, was here in February.

Lots of life in club that 'died'

By CHARLES HINCH
Staff Writer

"The reports of my death are greatly exaggerated."

Mark Twain said it once to the Associated Press in a cable from abroad.

The Pacific Coast Club has been saying the same thing at frequent intervals over the last 45 years.

What the people of Long Beach are witnessing these days, said club president, Edgar L. "Ted" Fraser, Friday, is a repetition of an old pattern.

"Everybody wants to know, when are funeral services? Well, she's not dead yet and if somebody will take time to feel her pulse, they'll find out there's still a lot of life in the old girl."

"I was having lunch yesterday," Fraser said, "and two women walked by and one was saying to the other: 'I hear the Pacific Coast Club is falling to pieces.' That's what a couple of headlines will do."

THE HEADLINES to which Fraser referred were those about a petition filed by Great Western Savings & Loan Association asking that the club be placed in receivership in default of payments on a $450,000 note.

Subsequently Fraser obtained a temporary restraining order blocking a foreclosure auction.

"Okay," Fraser said, "everybody wants to know, what the hell's going on? Well, here's our side:

"Last fall we were hit with a list of demands for repairs and alterations from the city's building and safety department. They were not functional, strictly code requirements.

"They came as a bolt out of the blue. Well, we asked the lender to relax on the note until we could work something out with the department.

"They refused, but we've maintained since that until something is worked out, we're entitled to consideration on the note.

"The note, but the way, is $3,500 a month. We haven't paid since last October. It comes to about $25,000. We're going to do whatever the court says. If they rule we must pay, we'll pay. We can get the money anytime we want it. The Pacific Coast Club will not fold over this issue."

But the problem remains, he acknowledged, of whether the club's declining revenues will enable it to survive another crisis, particularly one in the near future.

"THE OTHER night," he said, "about 100 members got together and called me in. 'What can we do,' they said. 'We want to do anything we can to help.' I was deeply touched."

The club can be saved, he said, if the people of Long Beach will join it and support it.

"We've got everything anyone could want here, gymnasium, Olympic-size pool, sauna bath, handball and squash courts, a dining room with the finest food in town, a great bar.

"Our track team is world famous. It runs all over the world, is televised all over the world and Long Beach is on the shirt of every member."

Something else in the works, he said, is a reorganization.

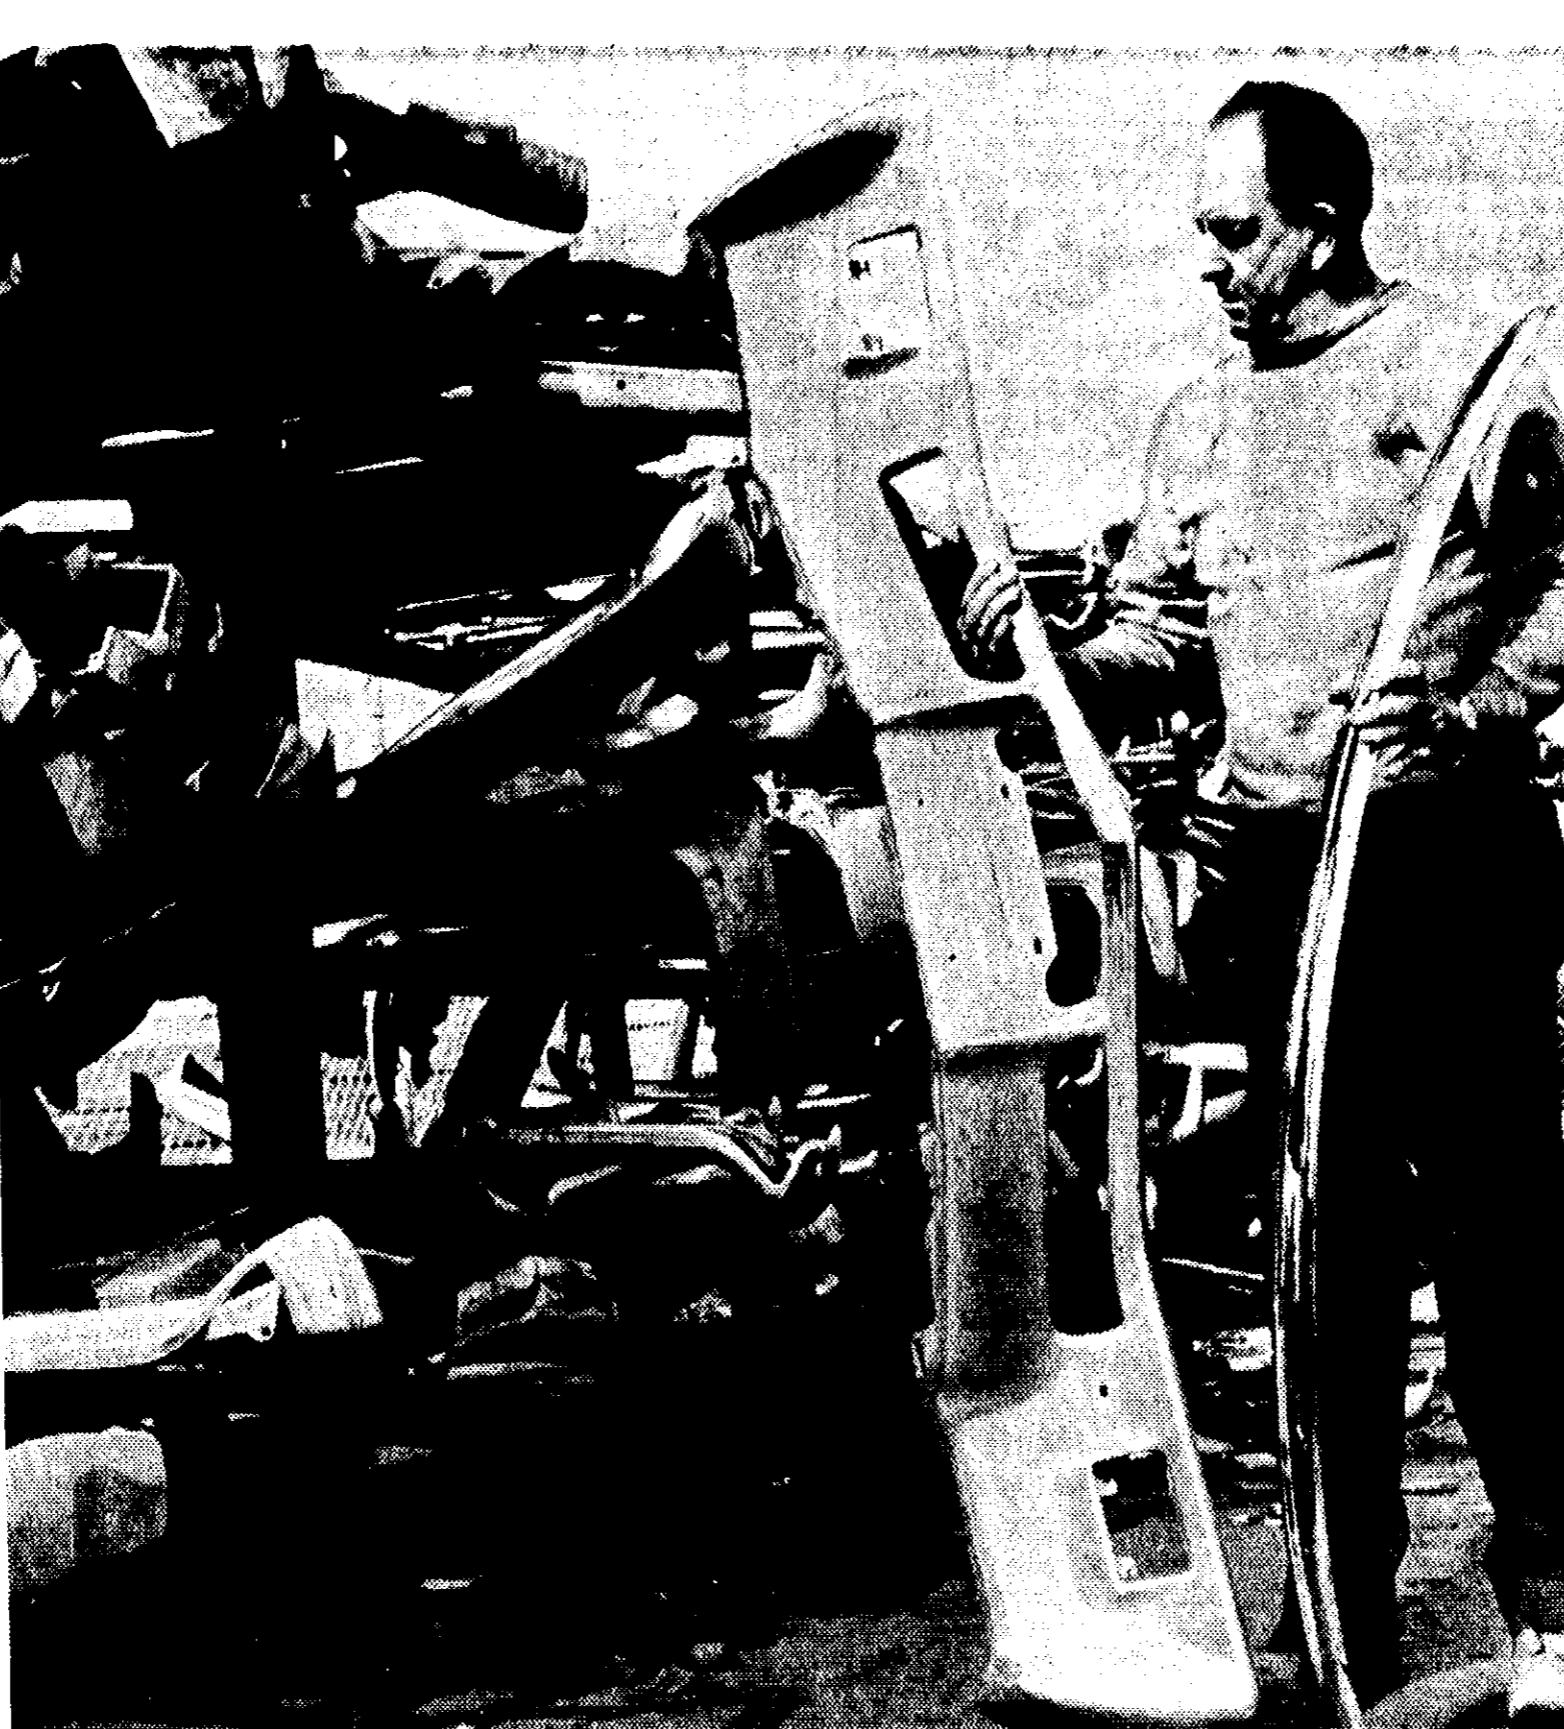

"Just what form it will take, we don't know, but we're going to try to reduce costs and bring in, to be blunt, fresh money."

The next court hearing, meanwhile, will take place Wednesday, April 26, in the Los Angeles Superior Court of Judge Max Z. Wisot, who for years was presiding judge of the Long Beach court. It was he who granted the restraining order.

Vandal hits 3 cars

A vandal damaged three new automobiles at Queen City Ford, 2302 Bellflower Blvd., during the early-morning hours Friday, Long Beach police reported.

Richard M. Baxter, owner of the agency, told officers that the windshields of a 1971 Thunderbird and two Pintos had been hammered out by the vandal.

HAROLD COCHARD FINDS GOLD IN ALL THOSE CRUMPLED CHROME BUMPERS
If Motorists Drove Safely, His Bumper Fixing Business Would Be Wrecked

But belies bureaucratic bellyache Bashed bumper unbender bases business boon, beefs

By DICK EMERY

The Big Bumper Beef of 1971 has jolted Washington and jarred Detroit, but it leaves Harold A. Cochard unshaken.

"A bashed bumper is good business."

HE STARTED in the bumper mending business 30 years ago with one bumper and 25 bucks and now he has 5,000 bumpers and owns a company with 12 employees.

"When I started bumper plating after I got out of Long Beach Poly High in 1940, a bumper all twisted up from a wreck couldn't be fixed.

"Last couple of years, though, there's an outfit we send them to which can straighten them out. Then we give a plating job and the bumpers look like new."

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM

SATURDAY, APRIL 17, 1971 SECTION B — PAGE B-1
MARKETS ON PAGES C-6 & C-7

Cochard started in business when he was 18 years old.

"I had a front bumper from a '49 Mercury, and $25 in my pocket."

The bumper beef in Washington was brought against car makers last fall by insurance companies and consumer advocates. They complained the car makers in recent years have cut effectiveness of bumpers in order to increase profit from collision repairs.

After taking a stand months ago against the car-makers the federal Department of Transportation on Wednesday relented, to permit manufacture of rear bumpers to withstand only 2 mph bumps, instead of the earlier goal of 5 mph, on 1973 models.

"It seems to me," Cochard said Thursday in the bumper boneyard beside his Long Beach Plating Co. plant at 1620 W. Anaheim Street, "bumpers used to stick out, and now they're close to the car. So any smash that kinks the bumper kinks the car."

"I'm not sure they're making bumpers of the same spring steel as they used to use."

GETTING a mashed bumper face-lifted can set a motorist back from $10 to $80. Cochard said the worry about cars which fall into ruin from a minor bump may upset Washington, but not him.

"If people drove more carefully," he said, brushing a speck of dust off a re-chromed 1940 Ford bumper, "they wouldn't have all these troubles."

CSLB speech unit troubled

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

Over the last five years, the Speech Communications department at California State College, Long Beach, has acquired stature as perhaps the best school of its kind in the West.

Instructors have worked painstakingly both in class and on an individual basis, encouraging progressive studies and research in the field. They have led the way by setting examples.

As a result, an unprecedented number of faculty and students have represented the college at virtually every major speech and communication convention, national and international, in recent months.

And, as the department's reputation for producing outstanding bachelor's and master's degree candidates has grown, the department has been able to attract prestigious professors.

But this spring, despite reaching new heights, professors in the department are afraid they may be forced to sit and watch their bastion of academic excellence be toppled by budget slashes and red tape.

UNDER MANDATES from the office of Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke, the most highly-developed and advanced areas of the department are in trouble:

— A directed studies course for top senior students will not be offered this fall when classes resume.

— A directed research course for graduate students, plus clinical practice courses for undergraduates and graduates, will be offered to a limited number of students.

— And perhaps worst, the position which coordinates the precious individual guidance given to high-level students may be eliminated.

"We frankly don't know what to do," said Dr. Dorothy Skriletz, chairman of the speech communication department.

"When I first came here in 1959," she said, "the bulk of our offerings (in the broad conglomeration of speech areas) was in the old general education speech."

"Now, it's only 20 per cent and we have a higher enrollment," she said, with most students aiming for advanced degrees in speech and communication.

The directed graduate studies course scheduled for limited enrollment this fall, is a requirement for those graduate students who plan to continue their pursuit of a doctorate, she explained.

The clinical experience courses, also to be offered on only a limited basis, are also necessities for students in those areas.

"These students have to have a certain number of clock hours (of experience) for certification as speech pathologists," said Dr. Skriletz.

These advanced, or S-factor, courses are being pared down because they were excluded from a computer evaluation of how well college professors have utilized their classroom time, she said.

"If you take all these S-factor courses out, it looks like the teaching load is lighter than it is," she said. "But they neglected to add these into the budget."

"Another thing — maybe we shouldn't have, but in the past, we've taken teaching overloads, just like other departments," she said. "But not this year."

Another chancellor's mandate stresses that instructors are not to carry more than 12 units of class load — the standard fulltime amount.

"YOU SEE, graduate students are assigned advisers to see they meet all the requirements for (degree) candidacy," said Dr. Skriletz. "The graduate student works on a special program catered to his needs — and it's only been in the last two years that we've been able to do this."

Exemplary of that program, she said, are two students now working as teaching assistants in the department. Steve Lodel and Tim Plax each will present research papers next week before the International Communication Association convention in Phoenix.

With the rash of problems facing the department, Dr. Skriletz is also worried that her best professors will be lured away by larger universities.

"Despite how tight the job market is, I think the time has come where some of our people don't have to go looking for jobs — the jobs are coming to them."

Dr. Skriletz said she hopes there will be "no loss of quality," in the department's educational offerings.

But according to Dr. Jerry Mandel, another speech communication professor, "the word is out: our graduate program is in trouble."

Ecology groups fight proposal for El Dorado

By GILBERT BAILEY
Contributing Editor

The proposal calling for extensive commercial development of El Dorado Park East is running into opposition from Long Beach-area conservationists.

Three public hearings on development plans of International Recreation and Sports Inc. (IRS) will be held next week. Representatives of the Audubon Society, the Sierra Club and the League of Women Voters are planning to testify.

"We hope that the city of Long Beach will strongly consider the preservation of the beauty that it has created at El Dorado," said Charles Jenner, president of the local chapter of the Audubon Society.

"California has more than enough commercial recreation areas, and too few El Dorado Parks," he added.

IRS is planning a $3.5-million development of two sections of the park.

Four hundred camp sites are planned, numerous concessions are contemplated, and a zoo is projected.

The concessionaire also plans Mexican, African and Indian villages.

Jenner and some other conservationists would prefer a more gradual development of the area with less density of activity.

The area already includes a tree farm, a nature center and an archery range.

"The construction of a small scenic railway for public transportation in the park would certainly be justified in order to reduce automobile traffic," said Jenner.

"BUT SOME individuals propose to 'commercialize' the park, and thereby build a money-making institution run by concessionaires," he added.

Following the hearings the Park and Recreation Department staff will report to its commission.

The final decision will be in the hands of the City Council.

Public hearings set on proposed El Dorado Park development

The first of three public meetings to get community viewpoints on the proposed development of El Dorado Park East will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Veterans Park clubhouse, 101 E. 28th St.

Recreation Department officials will give a brief resume of the development proposed by International Recreation and Sports Inc., then will invite public comments.

Other meetings are scheduled at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in Houghton Park clubhouse, 6301 Myrtle Ave., and at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Wardlow Park clubhouse, 3437 Stanbridge Ave.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER

Lakewood's Pan American Queen Patricia Shildknecht has won a new honor — a $250 scholarship award from State Mutual Savings, presented in recognition of her reign. The 17-year-old St. Joseph's High School senior, given the award by Gil Chilton, regional manager of the savings association, received other prizes in recognition of her rule, which ends on Sunday when the 25th Lakewood Pan American Festival concludes.

'Outfit the Family Day' set; clothes for needy requested

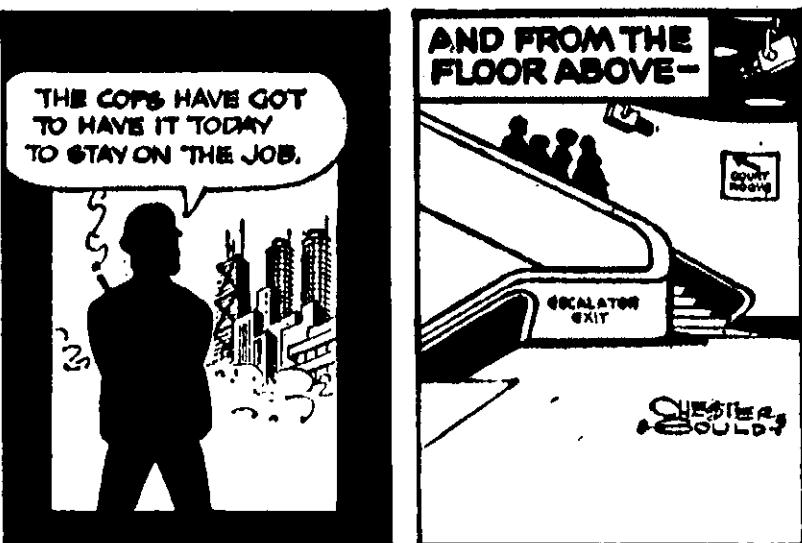

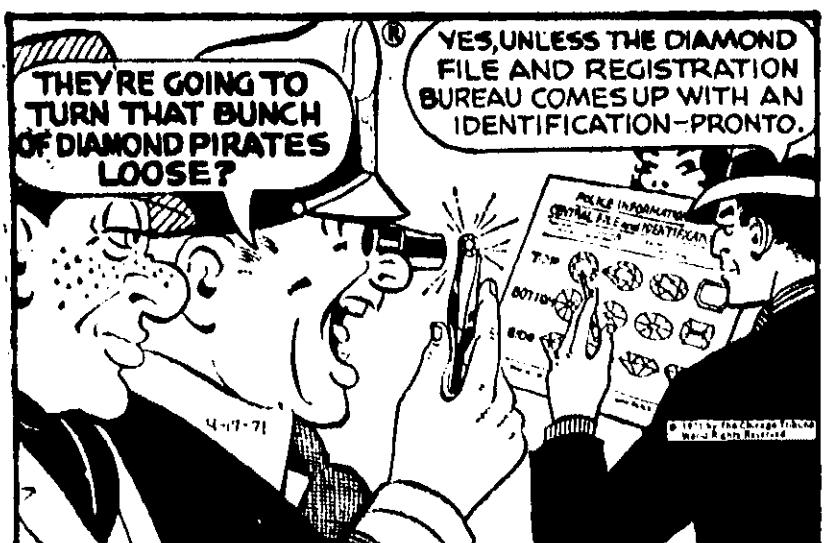

"Outfit the Family Day" will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at the North Long Beach Neighborhood Center, it was announced Friday.

Families in need of clothing will be served from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday, and from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday. The center is at 5148 Atlantic Ave.

Willie Mae Addison, the center's assistant director, said more clothing is needed and that a free pickup service is available.

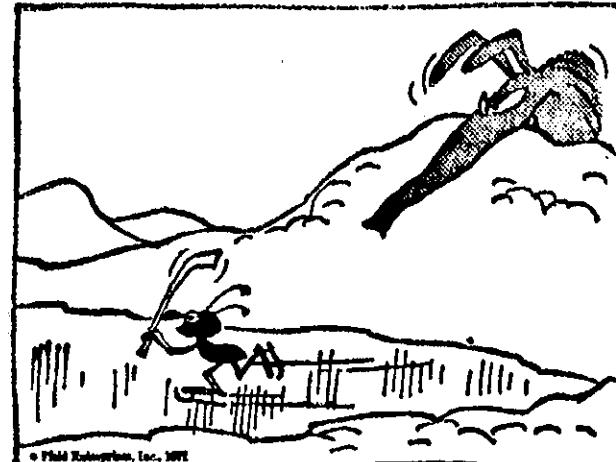

Clothing for school-age boys is in particular demand, she said.

'Superstar' & 'Family' hassles

By LES RODNEY

"Jesus Christ Superstar" is blasphemous, sacrilegious, irreverent, profane, decoratiing, apostate and anti-Christian!"

So begins an article in the Christian Crusade Weekly, a Tulsa publication of Billy James Hargis.

The best selling rock opera has been highly praised by other Christians, including some evangelicals. The young "Jesus People" seem to go for it.

I plead ignorance, not having heard it. Any comments welcomed.

Services will be Monday at 1 p.m. in Green Hills Mortuary Chapel, San Pedro for William A. Vandecar, who served as city assessor of Long Beach for 17 years. Mr. Vandecar died Thursday at the age of 87.

A native of Ionia, Mich., he came to Long Beach in 1921, and went to work in the city assessor's office in 1924. After 11 years as a deputy assessor, he became city assessor in 1935, and retired in 1952.

He was a 40-year member of Alta Loma Masonic Lodge of Long Beach.

Surviving are two sons, Arthur D., William L., both of Long Beach; daughters, Mrs. Wilma Davis of Long Beach, Mrs. Maxine Guise of Newhall, 11 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

that good organizations and great men can sometimes be wrong.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency story — a fair story — also quotes the producer of All in the Family, and JTA reporter, George Friedman, who reviewed the show and said: "Some impressionable youngsters may learn the wrong lessons from the program — but this observer's viewpoint is that the series is an always funny, often brilliant one that both makes its anti-bias points and entertains: the ideal combination."

Agree with Friedman, and with the critics (N.Y. Times, TV Guide and others) who have hailed it. Note where it will be on at 10:30 p.m. Mondays in the fall, and "impressionable youngsters" oughtn't to be watching TV then anyhow, right? Got to be some time for us poor adults.

KATHRYN KUHLMAN this Sunday begins her seventh year of monthly meetings at the L.A. Shrine Auditorium, reminds Rev. Wesley Steelberg of First Assembly of God. Miss Kuhlman (who by now has probably been heard in person by more Southern Californians than any woman evangelist since Aimee), regularly packs the old place. Any Long Beachers who are interested in going and have no means of transportation can contact Mrs. Fern Ceile of 333 Golden Ave., phone 436-2496, who arranges a chartered bus to each meeting.

In this week's edition of the Jewish Federation News of Long Beach (a swinging paper, incidentally) there is a Jewish Telegraphic Agency article about the show being renewed for the next season. The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith is quoted as saying that the series reinforces stereotypes, and the late Whitney M. Young Jr. is said to have described the show as similar to Amos 'n Andy.

I rate the ADL as having done historically vital, much-needed work against prejudices of all kind, and Whitney Young Jr. as having been one of the great Americans. But their attacks on All in the Family are way, way off the mark, which only proves

NEW LOOK AT CORNER OF 10TH AND LINDEN

Dedication Sunday for new Lutheran school facilities

It's dedication day and open house Sunday at 3 p.m. for the handsome new educational building of First Lutheran Church's school, on Linden Avenue near 10th Street.

The school, which dates back to 1910, making it five years younger than the church, has turned out many distinguished area citizens over the years.

The $300,000 structure, which also gives the church sorely needed administrative offices and a library, as well as cheerful, modern school rooms, "was needed if we were to carry out our mission to this area which we serve," explains the church pastor, Rev. Edward Schroeder.

The historic church school, under Principal Paul R. Brott, has, among other things, carried out a highly successful annual summer recreational program for inner-city children.

Part of the old school facilities will be renovated to be made available to the senior citizens, with easy street access.

The dedication ceremonies will be held on the playground at 3 p.m., with three Eagle Scouts raising the flag, and the church choir and the school children providing music. Two pupils dating back to the school opening in 1910, still members of the church, do very well, it is said.

Current school theme is "What's the Difference?" — the theme of the spiritual and educational potential within each differing individual.

MAY I HAVE A MOMENT OF YOUR TIME?

There is nothing earth shattering about the fact I am planning to preach tomorrow morning. I've been preaching almost every Sunday for the past thirty years and I've never yet turned the world upside down.

I can say this, however. I have had some great themes: the love of God; the atoning death of Christ; His resurrection; the ministry of the Holy Spirit.

Tomorrow morning's theme has to do with the greatest power known to man, the greatest blessing, prayer. Imagine the privilege of entering the very presence of the Almighty; imagine having a conversation with the Creator of all that is. You can talk all you please about positive thinking and its syncretism and derivatives, nothing compares with prayer.

There is, of course, a "catch." To pray successfully, one has to meet the conditions set forth in the Scriptures. The sermon, "Yours For The Asking," will have to do with these conditions.

Sunday evening, Roy McKeown will be with us, bringing with him from World Opportunities one of his outstanding musical artists, Walter Arias. Mr. Arias is one of the great negro singers of America today. He has been described as a combination of Nat "King" Cole and Johnny Mathis.

If you have no church home, we invite you to share tomorrow with us.

Sincerely,
Frank M. Kepner, Pastor

Whatever happened to the post-Easter doldrums?

The Sunday after Easter has often been ruefully called "Low Sunday" in the churches, due in part to an expected fading away of attendance and activity after the high point of the year. But you'd never know it in Long Beach this year! Take a look at the lively, diversified programs hereabouts, as suggested by the pictures on this page — and the big fat "Gongs On" column. Yes, indeed, the churches are definitely alive in 1971, perhaps more so than ever before.

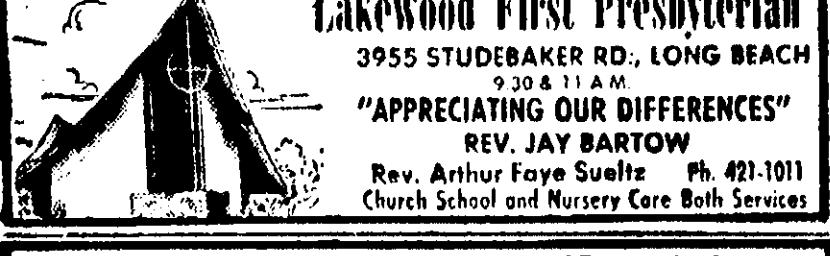

HERE SUNDAY

Harold Rogers, former arts and entertainment editor of the Christian Science Monitor, will offer a free public lecture on "The Family of Man" Sunday, 3 p.m. in First Church of Christ, Scientist, 440 Elm Ave. He will tell how he applied the laws of God toward establishing harmony at an international music critics conference in Finland.

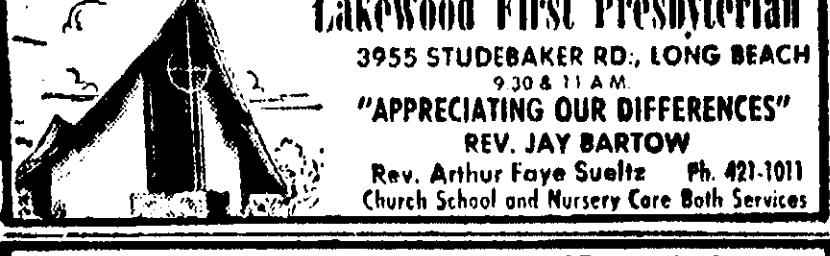

AMERICANISM LECTURES SET

"Americanism and Our Unalienable Rights" is the topic of a series of eight consecutive Sunday evening talks starting this Sunday at First Brethren Church, 3601 Linden Ave., by Prof. Charles E. Wolff, professor of marketing at Cal State, Long Beach. High school and college students, as well as adults, are invited to the 7:30 p.m. sessions, one hour long. Prof. Wolff has conducted many Southland seminars on the topic. He is listed in "Who's Who in the West."

LEADER HERE

Rev. Dr. B. Edgar Johnson, general secretary of the Church of Nazarene, headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., will be guest speaker Sunday 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. in Westside Church of the Nazarene, 2911 Santa Fe Ave. He is in the Southland for next week's National Association of Evangelicals meeting.

'YOUTH & YOGA'

That is the title of a public lecture presented Sunday 3 p.m. by the Long Beach Theosophical Society at 602 Pacific Ave., featuring Carle A. Christensen, a national sales consultant. He will probe the forces that have turned some of the young people to Eastern spiritual sources.

FOLK SONG MASS ORIGINATOR HERE

Rev. Ian Douglas Mitchell, guitar playing Episcopal priest who composed the popular "American Folk Song Mass," will be at St. Luke's Church, Seventh and Atlantic, Sunday at 9 a.m. with his wife Caroline, a soprano. First work of its kind, it has been celebrated in churches all over the country and on campuses, and has been enthusiastically received. The late Joseph Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis was so impressed he commissioned the Episcopal priest to render the Roman Catholic English Language Mass into the folk idiom.

PROCRASTINATE?

Dr. Chet Castellaw, who left a career as a Hollywood comedy writer to become a minister and counselor, and is now pastor of First Church of Religious Science in San Diego, will speak Sunday, 11 a.m. in Church of Religious Science International, 1309 E. Third St. Topic is "How to Overcome Procrastination (if you can find the time)."

People also need 'pressurization'

By NORMAN
VINCENT PEALE

Back in the 18th century a wise English philosopher, Lord Shaftesbury said, "Temper, if ungoverned, governs the whole man." A letter which I recently received from a young woman certainly indicates this:

"Dear Dr. Peale: This time I really need help. My husband and I just had another argument; he has gone to bed mad and I am sitting here wishing I had thought twice about getting married. I should have known I couldn't take it. It's something that only a real woman can stand because it's about the hardest job in the world."

"I wonder what's wrong?" she asked.

Suddenly a rush of cool air came in and once again there was some engine noise. The pilot came on the intercom, "Ladies and gentlemen, you've probably noticed some difficulty. The problem is that the computers affecting our pressurization kicked off. They're come back on now, but we aren't sure if we can count on them. Since we must keep this plane pressurized, we're going back to Boston."

IN ORDER for that plane to function properly it had to be pressurized. The same requirement applies to our minds. When the pressurization goes off, you get hot emotionally and you can't hear or see things clearly. You've got to go back to some spiritual "Boston" and get your pressurization repaired.

Pressurization! The woman who wrote that letter certainly could have used some because you can't think or have inner strength unless you cool it and become calm and quiet. You must have inner mental control before you can rationally consider a situation and deal with it.

When you are agitated by animosities, hatreds, prejudices, anxieties, fears and worries, control goes out. So remember to get pressurized to handle your problems with intelligence.

The Bible puts it this way: "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city." (Proverbs 16:32)

Evangelicals tackle issues

Drugs, abortion and pornography, considered to be three of the most crucial sociological issues in the nation's history by the National Assn. of Evangelicals, will receive prime attention at the 20th annual NAE convention in Los Angeles next week.

Evangelist Billy Graham will be among seven speakers at the three-day event starting Tuesday in the International Hotel. An expected 1,500 Evangelical leaders representing 36,000 churches will participate in more than 60 workshops and seminars.

"The significance of this meeting," NAE President

Hudson T. Armerding asserted, "that sets it apart from all previous ones is that the crises and challenges we face today are greater than at any time in our history. We are going to have to focus our attention on the things that really matter . . . to rise above our preoccupation with personal or provincial concerns."

The leaders of NAE's two and one-half million members will probe implications of theological and social action developments, the changing face of the church, new Christian movements including the young "Jesus People," church-state relations, evangelization and Christian education.

Speakers besides Graham scheduled for major addresses include Dr. Harold Lindsell, editor of "Christianity Today," Dr. Hudson T. Armerding, president of NAE and president of Wheaton College; Dr. B. Edgar Johnson, general secretary of the Church of the Nazarene and Dr. Edward Hill, pastor of Mount Zion Baptist Church and director of the World Christian Training Center, Los Angeles.

College and seminary students will attend workshop sessions, taking part in discussions about national issues.

nel 2 Sunday at 2 p.m. First program features three men who found help in overcoming the drug habit through faith in Christ. (Which reminds that President Nixon, speaking recently to 80 churchmen, said of the drug problem: "If there is an answer, you have it.")

40th anniversary

St. John Lutheran Church, 6698 Orange Ave., will observe the 40th anniversary of its organization in Sunday services at 8:15 and 10:45 a.m. Speaker at 10:45 will be Rev. Arnold G. Kuntz, president of the Southern California District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod.

The church ceased its existence in 1942 following the infamous incarceration of Japanese-Americans. It resumed in 1946 with a handful of returnees providing continuity. Honored guests Sunday will include Miss Alberta Schilling, who was church pianist and teacher from 1917 until the evacuation and Miss Alma Pawson.

Pictures dating back to 1913 will be on display at the church, 1333 Locust Ave. Among graduates of the late Mr. Burcham's Sunday School are Mrs. James A. Michener (nee Mari Sabusawa) and artist-photographer Sueo Serizawa.

The public is invited to visit the remodeled church, by the pastor, Rev. David T. Nakagawa, and the congregation. Architect was Kenneth M. Nishimoto, AIA.

Sermon on Mount

Rev. Dr. Robert Schuller, pastor of Garden Grove Community Church, will preach The Sermon on the Mount from memory this Sunday morning at 8:30, 10 and 11:15.

FROM THE PULPIT

The David Lloyd Singers will be featured in special concert at Calvary

7 p.m. Sunday. This group features the "new sound" in good taste. Their music is lively, but in no way can it be identified with so much of the poor taste "gospel music" being featured in churches today. In reality I am speaking of "rock" music disguised under the name "gospel."

This group of singers will bless your heart with the Old Message in a new way. I heard them recently in concert at Biola College and they are great.

I will be speaking on the subject of "The Unpardonable Sin." This subject deserves a large audience. You will want to hear what God's Word has to say on this subject.

New parking lots make it all the more convenient for you at Calvary. Last Sunday's attendance 1771. There is a reason! Come and see!

Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

Workshop offers 'Butterfly'

By DANIEL CARIAGA

Music Critic

After a five-month hiatus, Pacific Opera Theatre, Long Beach's pre-professional opera workshop, is performing again.

With a new set of directors, a rack of handsome, borrowed costumes, and attractive new sets designed and built by Glen Raney and Lee Bradshaw, P.O.T. opened its current production of Puccini's "Madama Butterfly," Thursday night in the Studio Theatre at Community Playhouse.

SILVERADO PARK AUDITORIUM

It is a pleasing package. Stage director Gary Davis, who has done admirable work with Long Beach Civic Light Opera, has put together a conventional, but refreshingly uncliched, "Butterfly," one in which theatrical illusions and dramatic continuity are created and maintained within a smoothly paced musical context.

John Dare, the new musical director, with help from his assistant, Ted Crain — they play twin pianos at the performances — provides that context.

Double casts fill the roles through these twelve performances. On opening night, Kathleen Martin made a touching Cio-Cio San, one of smooth vocalism and crisp diction. Her middle range sometimes suffers from weak projection, but her top is now taking on a healthy ring it used to lack (particularly as Rosalinda in "Fledermaus"). Miss Martin alternates with Maria Ferracioli.

Thursday's Pinkerton was Fredrick Winthrop, a promising tenor with a somewhat strained top. Suzuki was Trist Hillman, a solid performer we last saw in Roussel's "Testament de la tante Caroline" at UCLA.

Special guest performer Michael Gallup, who has recently graduated into full professional status, dominated his scene as the Bonze with his powerful voice and exigent stage presence. Craig Fields was a youthful but text-conscious, Sharpless. Don Powell was Goro, James Cowell a well-etched Yamadori, Jerome Rupple the Commissioner, and Patricia Varney, Kate Pinkerton. John Lawrence Scott, a handsome youngster, earned the expected oohs and aaahs as Troubadour.

Performances continue,

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights at 8:30; Sunday afternoons at 3:00, through May 2.

'A Man Called Peter' playing in Compton

"A Man Called Peter," was previewed Thursday evening in the sanctuary of St. John's United Presbyterian Church in Compton.

It is taken from the life story of the late Dr. Peter Marshall, one of the great preachers of our time and chaplain of the U.S. Senate during World War II. The play is being presented to the public tonight and April 23, 24.

GARDENING

BIRD OF PARADISE

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Bird of Paradise, strelitzia reginae, can be helped to bloom better if the gardener prunes the plants. Pruning consists of cutting off the oldest leaves until only sixty per cent of the leafage is left. Such pruning rejuvenates the plant.

A bird of paradise in the ground for years and still not blooming might be planted too deep, might lack sufficient watering or may lack nourishment. Also, the gardener might be thoughtlessly cutting off old leaves clear back to the plant. This is wrong, because most of the flowers grow out of the base of leaf stalk through the hollow portion. The leaves must be cut just above that hollow area, not down to the plant.

Scrape off any of last year's manure and spread any mulch that didn't work down into the soil. A day or so after watering, scatter bone meal or a fruit-flower maker fertilizer over the lightly scratched soil. Put a two to three inch layer of manure or a fine organic material over the soil then soak well. Keep moist a few days then water as needed. A month later feed it a complete plant food. Repeat the feeding two more times at two to three month intervals. Deeply water the plant because the thick like ropes grow deep also considerably spread out.

Container-grown bird of paradise also need the pruning and should be given the organic top dressing and feedings. But, apply only 25 per cent of the fertilizer and top dressing. The reason less material is used is due to the roots being restricted in the container, hence avoiding root burn.

The best weapon to combat sap-sucking insects such as aphids and spider mites, and a weapon that is a time saver, too, is water. A sharp hose spray can knock off numerous aphids, leaving many of them injured. A few might climb back up the plants, but the spraying cuts down the population. Do this every two or three days three or four times daily. You still need to apply insecticide after spraying, then repeat spraying.

A gardener who uses a liquid spray doesn't need to water the plants, nor if he applies a rose food containing a granular form in the fertilizer pellets.

Another pest, the spider mite, can be prevented from damaging foliage by spraying the underside of foliage in late afternoon. It is a known fact that spider mites hate to go to bed with wet feet. The hosing discourages them, they leave and seek other plants where gardeners don't hose the leafage.

Actually, wise gardeners hose spray all foliage in the garden several times a month when they water plants. The water dislodges leaves that drop in the crotches of plants, washes off dust and the fine crud of the smog. Such hosing discourages most insects from setting up housekeeping and breeding.

JUNIPERS, as hardy as they are, too, are susceptible to spider mites, and some aphid infestation. Gardeners should be conscious of that and water those shrubs, too.

Feeding fuchsias

Fuchsias still may be fed a high nitrogen type fertilizer, also tip growths can be pinched out to force secondary branch growth.

Aphids can be knocked off leafage and flowers by a strong water spray, followed up several days later with an insecticide spray.

Container plants should be watered several times, each time the water has disappeared into the soil after the previous watering. Such watering thoroughly soaks the whole root ball area, plus helping to leach the soil. Ideal time to fertilize the plants is after the watering, then fertilizer should be watered.

Feed agapanthus to help improve the flowers when they begin to blossom — about June.

Clump clivia plants should be dug up, separated and younger plants replanted. These plants are good pot plants, not only for their interesting, rich green foliage but also for their clusters of vivid orange blossoms — about March.

Garden Clinic

Q. — Our 20-year-old avocado tree has borne avocados for years. Last year it began looking sickly and didn't bear fruit as heavily as in the past. Leaves turn brown and eventually drop off. There was a lot of dead wood pruned out, and it is now bursting with new growth and has buds ready to bloom. I'm sure it's been getting enough water. It's in one corner of the yard. My husband edges around it and I keep weeds and grass away. We'll appreciate any help you can suggest.

The Prugels.

A. — The comment about edging indicates to me, though the tree isn't growing in a lawn, a lawn is fairly near on one side. If so, one of your sprinklers waters that side of the tree and an alkali condition builds up in the soil, causing leaf burn. But, if a sprinkler doesn't reach the soil, it can be one of two problems. — Tree is watered too frequently and too shallowly, or — it is watered too deeply in a clay-adobe soil where there may be a hard pan and the water is building up near the root base. An avocado tree shouldn't be soaked more than two feet, and should be watered from the trunk to three feet beyond the natural drip-line of the tree. If part of the lawn is nearer to one side of the tree, then that portion of the lawn too should be deeply watered. If hard pan exists, rent a soil auger and bore four feet (10 to 12 holes) three feet apart, half way between the trunk and the drip line. Bore second ring of holes further apart to balance the spacing. Fill holes with pea-size gravel to ground level.

Oscar show had a real pro glow

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

The 43rd annual Oscar Awards show on Ch. 4 Thursday night came off with a real pro glow.

Having knocked these award shows previously — based on the short time I could stomach the proceedings — I guess I've got to admit I sat through the entire affair this time and enjoyed it.

It had everything — good old fashioned schmaltz, in the proper proportion and with some old timers honored; suspense, would George C. Scott win after what he said, and would Sally Kellerman fall out of her dress?; comedy, Sara Miles stumbling around with George Segal holding her up and turning embarrassment into comic relief.

Best of all, the tedious business of lengthy between the awards was cut down with the people presenting awards ready at the mike and setting up of mikes at several tables reduced time waste.

The pace was good, for the most part, and the amount of dialogue of in-consequence between pairs of presenters cut neatly — again with some exceptions. The key was punched for fast programming with the opening off-stage voice: "Keep it moving and make acceptance speeches shorter than George C. Scott's rejection."

There have been better entertainment acts in previous award shows, but I must say I was quite tickled with Burt Lancaster's style of selling a song.

"CAREERS: Health Services," a firm showing possibilities for careers in the health field will be shown on Ch. 28 at 11:05 a.m., Monday and repeated at 11:03 a.m., April 23. Long Beach nurses, technologists and therapists and the facilities of Memorial Hospital Medical Center are featured in the film.

"ROLLER DERBY," described as "honest entertainment, never promising more than a kick in the shins or an elbow in the ribs," debuts on Ch. 9 at 2 p.m., today.

There are a number of fans in the area for this sort of nonsense and the station has offered some background which may be of interest.

The "Derby" was born in Chicago in 1935. A promoter named Leo Seltzer put skates on Walk-a-thons. . . . Gradually, the game evolved to where, according to Jerry Seltzer, son of the original promoter, "The basic appeal is noise, color, body contact. . . . We don't take ourselves too seriously. But apparently the fans take the game very seriously. . . ."

Ch. 9 also begins airing the Jack LaLanne Exercise Show starting at 9 p.m., Monday.

Salt Palace sets
rock concert rules

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Sitting on the floor will be banned and brighter lights will be the rule during rock concerts at the Salt Palace.

Police arrested 20 persons at a "Grand Funk Railroad" concert Tuesday night on narcotics charges. Officers said a portion of the audience was sprawled on the floor in the dark auditorium.

Velazquez art moved secretly to U.S. gallery

LONDON (UPI) — The Velazquez painting that brought $5.2 million at auction and sparked a national arts uproar in Britain has been moved secretly to the United States.

Wildenstein Gallery of New York bought the Spanish master's portrait of Juan de Pareja last Nov. 27 in London.

Sale of the painting by the eighth Earl of Radnor, whose family had owned it since 1811, angered many art lovers. They thought it should remain and be exhibited at Britain's National Gallery.

The British government withheld an export permit for several weeks while Britons tried to raise the money. The campaign failed. The government issued an export permit several weeks ago.

Lloyds, the insurance underwriters, said security on the shipment of the Velazquez was so tight that even most underwriters didn't know about it.

Lefty's patience may out-rank that of Job

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

TWIN CITIES — Lefty Phillips may be wearing a new nickname by the end of the season.

Job.

The manager of the Angels again exhibited unyielding patience with his minions Friday afternoon and his reward was a 4-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins — the fifth in succession for the darlings of Anaheim.

Phillips paused in the clubhouse to expand on his new-found virtue.

"With this team you have to have patience," he said, "or they might drive you right up the wall. But if you wait long enough they'll get hot and get some runs. All you can do is just sit back and wait for it to happen."

The happening took place in the eighth inning Friday.

For the first six and one-third innings Jim Perry, the well-known 24-game winner of 1970, was flirting with destiny and also a no-hitter. But Alex Johnson, the well-known hitting machine, shattered the spell with a one-out single in the seventh and then the Anaheims proceeded to shatter Perry and the Twins in the fateful eighth.

It was only fitting that the beneficiary of a three-run Angel eighth should be Rudy May, formerly identified as a luckless left-hander. Rudy yielded only a first inning run to Minnesota and went on to fashion nine strikeouts but was removed after seven frames, trailing 1-0.

"I said to myself here we go again," May said.

He had his reasons.

Last year May led the league in hard-luck losses and it appeared for seven innings that his fortunes had not changed for the better.

But they really had.

In the eighth, Jerry Moses produced a one-out single to center before Perry retired pinch-hitter Roger Repoz on a foul pop. But Phillips had another pinch-hitter deliver for him. Tony Gonzalez slapped a single to center and Sandy Alomar came to the plate.

Alomar coaxed Perry to a 3-2 count and then ripped into a fastball and launched it to deep right-center. Tony Oliva gave it a yeoman effort but the ball ricocheted off his glove and Alomar wound up with a triple as the Angels wound up with a 2-1 lead.

Jim Fregosi promptly plated Alomar with another single and when Johnson followed with the fifth base hit of the inning, Twins' manager Bill Rigney went after Perry.

"As soon as Alex got that hit in the seventh inning I knew something was in order for us," May said.

"Perry just wasn't throw-

Lew Johnson, celebrating his 24th birthday, flashed his brilliance early Friday night and the Milwaukee Bucks followed his lead to score a 117-94 victory over the Lakers before a sellout crowd of 17,505 at the Forum.

In losing to the Bucks by 15 or more points for the seventh time this season — three in this series the Lakers appear ripe to end their season in Milwaukee Sunday when the fifth game of the Western Conference playoffs is held.

If Alcindor repeats his performance at home there is no doubt that the Bucks will earn their way into the NBA finals for the first time in their brief history.

Outplayed the last two games by Wilt Chamberlain, Alcindor got even with a 31-point, 20-rebound performance that saw him make 14 of 20 fielders to key an incredible shooting effort by the Bucks.

Milwaukee made a 52 of 84 shots, a fantastic 62 per cent, while the Lakers were struggling at 36 per cent which is their normal game against the Bucks.

The Lakers took 30 more shots than the Midwest Division champs, but they were under far more pressure while most of the Bucks shots were wide-open ones as the result of superb passes and clever plays.

The game was decided in the first quarter, and Alcindor was the man who set the tone for the Bucks. He netted 17 points and forced Chamberlain into three fouls, enabling the Bucks to take a 30-22 lead.

Eight points isn't a big deficit in the NBA, but it meant the Lakers had to run to catch up and they had to get a great defensive effort from Chamberlain.

Wilt was in no position to challenge every shot with his three fouls, and as a running team, the Laker ers just aren't in a class with the Bucks.

played aggressively, but Alcindor was superior.

The Lakers did, however, make one courageous sprint in the third quarter and for a moment it appeared their home-court magic might produce another win.

Led by Happy Hairston, they closed to within one point, 68-67, with only four minutes gone in the third stanza. The crowd was going crazy and the Lakers had momentum.

What transpired after that was strictly a nightmare. With surprising ease the Bucks picked apart the Laker defense and outscored them 24-7 to take a commanding 92-74 lead into the fourth quarter.

The rest was boring. Alcindor played only a few more minutes, as did Chamberlain, who said afterward that he wasn't feeling well, and that he may have the flu.

In 34 minutes the big man scored 15 points, grabbed 16 rebounds and blocked two shots. He led the Lakers with 26 points and 11 assists. He had a poor second half, however, missing 7 of 10 shots.

Hairston and Jim McMillian, the starting forwards, failed on 24 of 34 field goal attempts, and backup cornerman Rick Roberson missed 9 of 13. Combined, the front men made a poor 30 per cent.

Pat Riley played well again, scoring 17 points while also forcing the Bucks into several turnovers. Riley made only two ball-control errors himself, but both came in the Bucks' big third-quarter blitz.

"We ran at them tonight instead of them running at us," said Milwaukee coach Larry Costello. "We feel we're superior when we can get our running game going. I think we were more aggressive tonight, especially Alcindor."

Laker coach Joe Mullaney agreed.

"They were determined and very successful at what they tried to do. They moved the ball well and put a burden on our defense. They took advantage of everything we tried to do."

Mullaney did not want to

Buckner Dodger hero in 10th

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

While Billy Buckner savored the hero's role for his 10th inning single that beat Houston, 6-5, Friday night, Willie Crawford sat quietly, alone, far from the hub-bub of the Dodgers' victory celebration.

It was Willie C. who started the game in right-field, the second night in a row in which he's opened in right, another rightfielder, Billy Buck, who ended it with his criss single to center and for the first time all year the Dodgers have won two games in a row.

What dejected Crawford, though, happened two hours earlier, in Lancers take over lead; Poly surprises Wilson, 3-0

Runs were few and far between Friday night at Blair Field as Lakewood High took over undisputed first place in the Moore League baseball race.

The Lancers pushed across two unearned runs in the first inning, then hung on for a 2-1 decision over Jordan behind sophomore Doug Slettgett.

Wilson missed a chance to move into a tie for second with the Panthers in the nightcap as Poly's Dale Adams scattered eight hits in blanking the Bruins, 3-0.

Most of the scoring came in an afternoon game in Pico Rivera as Millikan routed El Rancho 11-2 and now shares second with Jordan at 5-3.

Jordan was its own worst enemy against Lakewood, letting the Lancers score twice on only one hit combined with an error, wild pitch and passed ball.

Jerry Pitts singled to open the game, then went to second as Ron Davis bobbled the ball in left. Pitts advanced to third on a ground out, then scored as Marty Gary hit a ground ball to second. The throw by Mike Mallet sailed over catcher Mike Corbin and Gray wound up on second.

A wild pitch by losing pitcher Rich Whitaker put Gray on third where he came home on a passed ball.

Whitaker and the Panthers then settled down, but the damage had been done.

Jordan's only run off Slettgett, who is now 4-0 this season, came in the third when Wayne Parkins singled in Mallet.

The Panthers threatened in the seventh, putting two men on with one out, but Slettgett got Mallet on a fielder's choice and Guy Megliola on a ground out to end the game.

Adams, who had given up 19 hits in 15-13 innings prior to Friday, was the surprise of the second game, displaying pinpoint control in throttling the Bruins.

Wilson ace Scott Marcelli retired the first 12 Poly batters, but had a muscle tighten on him in the fourth when the Jackrabbits had five of their six hits and scored three times. Marcelli had to come out an inning later.

A line-drive double by Pat O'Sullivan that hit the left-field wall on one bounce, and singles by Leon Washington and Gary Price accounted for two runs. Chris Jenner also chipped in with an RBI hit.

Millikan took advantage of 11 walks off El Rancho pitchers Gil Molina and Larry Anderson, then added insult to injury by stealing 10 bases against the Dons.

Mickey Klutts hit a two-run homer for El Rancho in the fourth.

Billie Jean has windy scare; Casals jolted

By BOB MARTIN
Staff Writer

LAS VEGAS — Rosemary Casals was upset and Billie Jean King survived a king-sized scare Friday afternoon in quarterfinal matches of the $30,000 Women's World Championship Tennis Tournament.

Playing in a strong Vegas wind, Mrs. King rallied in the third set to defeat Nancy Richey Gunther, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, after Miss Casals was jolted by Judy Tegart Dalton of Australia, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3.

Rosemary is the second leading money winner on the Virginia Slims women's circuit behind Billie Jean and was seeded No. 2.

Both matches were played on the No. 1 court at Caesars Palace, and the wind got more fierce as the day progressed, therefore causing King-Gunther more trouble than Casals-Dalton.

Billie Jean and Nancy long have been noted for exciting, hotly contested duels and Friday's contest, their first clash of 1971, was another great one, however, only several hundred spectators were on hand to see it.

The Long Beach star beat Nancy at the Texan's own game this time, choosing to stay on the baseline most of the time throughout the battle. In fact, Nancy came to the net even more often than Billie Jean the first set.

"I find that when I play aggressively against Nancy I usually lose to her," Billie Jean said after the match. "Therefore, I decided to go against my natural instinct and play defensively. I decided I'd try looping, soft shots mainly — just give her a lot of nothing."

"Normally, I'd probably rush the net even more in a strong wind than on a calm day."

Mrs. Gunther got the first service break of the third set in the fifth game, and Mrs. King later admitted her hopes of winning the record $9,000 first prize money were fading at that time.

But B.J. broke serve right back, then took a 4-3 lead and broke Nancy's serve again in the 10th game of the set for the clincher.

"I feel I was lucky to win," Billie Jean said. "I mis-hit a shot on a key point, but she couldn't reach the ball and that seemed to be the turning point."

"You couldn't believe the wind — it kept changing all the time. Playing in a strong wind is very tiring, both physically and mentally."

Mrs. Dalton, Wimbledon runnerup in 1968, said she thought the wind was to her advantage against Mrs. Casals "because I'm more used to playing in it than Rosie is."

The Australian started off poorly on the women's tour this season, and this is the first of 13 tournaments in which she has reached the semifinals. She said she had lost to Rosemary four times on the tour.

Miss Casals was not the only seeded player to fall by the wayside. Fourth-seeded Francoise Durr of France succumbed to Julie Heldman of Houston, 7-6, 6-0.

Billie Jean meets Miss Heldman in one of today's semifinals. In the other match, Ann Hayden Jones, England, faces Mrs. Dalton.

Mrs. Jones scored a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Mary Ann Curtis, St. Louis.

Football 'ridiculous' -- Sauer retires

PLAYERS TREATED LIKE CHILDREN

GEORGE SAUER
Joins Meggyesy?

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Sauer Jr., the premier wide receiver for the New York Jets, informed the club Friday he was retiring because "I am dissatisfied with football as it is being played now — to be a player is to be treated like a child."

Sauer made his intentions known to Weeb Ewbank, the Jets' coach and general manager, in a telephone conversation, stating:

"I am physically able to play so it is hard to do retire since I like football. But I dislike present conditions. It's hard to leave the guys. It's a hard decision to make knowing you can still play. There are many reasons and it is kind of hard to get into."

The 27-year-old Sauer explained his reasons in a copyrighted story given to Dave Burgin of the San Francisco Examiner and Len Valenti of the Newark News.

When it was pointed out to him by one Jets' official that his name would be associated with that of Dave Meggyesy, former member of the St. Louis Cardinals who has written a book in which he says pro football is "dehumanizing," Sauer told the official:

"I agree with Meggyesy on some things; I don't agree with him on some things."

Sauer told Burgin of his belief that pro football players are treated like children.

"I know that several times I have found myself in the locker room, caught up in it all and acting like a seven-year-old," said Sauer. "After years of this kind of living, what else can you be but an adolescent."

Sauer told the Jets his decision was two years in the making and that he "might write something more about my feelings and experiences in a magazine article. I feel that I have a few things to say about my 15 years in organized football, about what football really means in our society, and about what professional football has become."

"The whole structure of football is ridiculous."

Ewbank said he had spoken with Sauer for about 20 minutes and his decision "comes as a shock to me. He was an integral part of the development and success of our fine football team."

"He will be missed very much as George Sauer the player and as George Sauer the person. A great athlete like George Sauer will naturally be hard to replace."

Sauer, who made his own retirement announcement through the Institute for the Study of Sport and Society in Oakland, took a swipe at Ewbank by saying "there's a great deal of truth in the reports he can't control his players."

"The game," he said, "can really touch you as a human being if you are permitted to touch others as human beings."

Olympic door open now to Red China

The door is open for the Red Chinese to compete in the Olympic Games but the next move is up to them, Avery Brundage said Friday.

"The last communication we had from them was that they were cancelling their memberships in the international federations and never would compete as long as Avery Brundage, whom they called the tool of imperialism, was president of the IOC," the 83-year-old Olympic chief said from his home in Santa Barbara.

THE University of Oregon's fighting Duck mascot now has a soul brother.

Decals featuring a black Duck hurdler, who sports a full Afro style haircut, were ordered this spring by the school's track team. "I think it's a good expression," track coach Bill Bowerman said of the decals.

"THEY'VE got to come to Boston. They won't beat us at home."

That was center Phil Esposito's terse comment Friday as the Boston Bruins returned home for a seventh and deciding game with Montreal Sunday in their NHL playoff.

especially against a team like the Pirates," said Seaver. "That's the type of game I want to pitch. It was a good, strong Tom Seaver game. If I pitch like that every time ... well, what are you going to say?"

Seaver now 2-0, allowed three singles, two by Al Oliver and one by Dave Cash, as he breezed through the usually hard-hitting Pirate lineup on 115 pitches. He had pinpoint control, not walking a batter and throwing 81 strikes.

"Throwing all those strikes and not walking anybody is a very gratifying feeling," said Seaver who retired 11 consecutive batters between the third and seventh innings and had at least one strikeout victim in each frame.

Crucial twinbill today

Twice Cal State Long Beach has climbed out of holes to win conference baseball titles but if the 49ers are to make it three in a row they are going to have to find their way out of a canyon.

The 49ers failed to exploit San Jose State's 6-4 loss to UC Santa Barbara Friday, bowing themselves to visiting Cal State L.A., 1-0.

The defeat left Long Beach 6-7 in Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. competition and trailing San Jose (6-4), Fresno State (7-5), San Diego (5-4) and UC Santa Barbara (5-5) in the standings.

"We'll have a chance if we can win two today and San Jose splits," suggests 49er coach John Gonzales, who will start John Keisler and either Tim Brady or Ed Ratleff in a noon doubleheader with the Diablos at Blair Field.

L.A.'s only run Friday came in the third inning when Phil Casper singled.

Frazier, Knicks fend off Bullets

NEW YORK (UPI)

Walt Frazier scored 28 points Friday night, including a big basket with 28 seconds remaining that stopped a Baltimore rally and enabled New York to defeat the Bullets, 89-84, for a 3-2 lead in their Eastern Conference playoff final.

Frazier's basket gave the Knicks an 88-84 lead after the Bullets had gone on a 12-2 surge to almost recover from a 12-point deficit.

Jack Marin, who scored 25 points for Baltimore, and Fred Carter, who netted 18, accounted for all 12 points during the Bullet streak.

New York never trailed in the game, but the Knicks' offensive efforts were hampered by Willis Reed's inability to use his right arm to steady his shooting or for rebounding. He scored only six points in the game. However, his

Rich turf race split

Manta tops Long Beach 'Cap

Manta, unbeaten on the turf in five starts, picked up at Hollywood Park today where she left off at Santa Anita when she carries 129 pounds in the $50,000 Long Beach Handicap.

The 1 1/16 mile race was divided into two $50,000 sections by the track after 17 fillies and mares were entered, giving the distaff performers an early bonus in added money.

Manta races in the second division, contested as the eighth race, in which she will have major opposition from Swoon's Flower, winner of the Black Helen and Orchid Handicaps in Florida. Manta spots Swoon's Flower 12 pounds.

Tipping Time, the defending champion in the Long Beach, scored a major upset last year when she defeated Pattee Canyon in the race. Tipping Time carries 115 pounds while the inconsistent Beja has a 117-pound impost. The other major contender in the first division is Typecast, a winner of three races at Santa Anita.

It was at the winter track that Manta stamped herself one of the top distaff performers in the nation by winning three stakes including the $100,000 Santa Margarita.

In her last start in the Santa Barbara Handicap at 1 1/4 miles on the turf, Manta carries 128 pounds but led from start to finish to win by three lengths.

Others in the second division carrying imposts from 108 to 113 pounds are Papirola, Duke's Little Gale, Wisdom Word, Dusty Eyes, Mizzle and Hi Q.

In the first division, the lightweights are La Sevillana, Amber Light, Goddess Special, Blow Up II, and Wedding Veil and Swingster.

In the advance of her regular rider, Laffit Pincay Jr., who is riding in the California Derby at Golden Gate today, Manta will be ridden by Jerry Lambert who also is aboard Typecast in the first division. Jorge Tejera flies in from the east to handle Swoon's Flower.

Bill Shoemaker has mounts on Beja in the first division and Mizzle in the second division. Bill Mahoney rides Goddess Special and Hi Q while Don Pierce handles both Tipping Time and Papirola.

Special visitors from Long Beach, representing the city and chamber of commerce, will handle the winner-crowning duties for both divisions of the Long Beach Handicap.

Don Gill, president of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, and lovely Carol Vogen, Miss Welcome to Long Beach, will present the trophy to the winner of the second division.

Handling the task for the first division will be councilman E. F. (Ted) Cruchley and Tom Wayman, popular KMPC newsmen, who Monday will become the honorary mayor of Long Beach.

Hollywood's salute to Long Beach, which is expected to attract a large number of harbor city racing fans who will take advantage of a special 2-for-1 admission offer, also will include a visit by six KFOX disc jockeys, each of whom will bring along a listener-guest, who is the winner of the Hollypark contest conducted by the station.

Services set for J. Walker

Services will be held Monday at 11 a.m. in First Baptist Church for John Paul Walker, educator, community leader and churchman who died Thursday at the age of 74.

A native of Crawfordsville, Iowa who served with a medical infantry detachment in World War I, Mr. Walker was educated at Montana University and UCLA, and came to Long Beach 47 years ago.

An active churchman, Mr. Walker was Sunday School superintendent at First Baptist for 25 years, and also served as the first president of the Men's Council, a trustee, and chief church chef, one of his hobbies. He received the Layman's Citation Award from Berkeley Baptist Divinity School in 1951 for outstanding Christian leadership.

MUSIC ... From Mottell's Mortuary Belfry

Bells are pealing four times a day from the 45-year old belfry atop Mottell's Mortuary, 909 E. Third St., Long Beach.

L. L. Bud Minor, vice president-general manager said an extensive new carillon bell system has been installed in the mortuary as part of a year-long redecorating program.

Called "Programmatic," the new system — in addition to the bells — provides background music, a paging system and special audio and music recordings for the mortuary.

All or any part of the functions can be sequentially programmed to operate automatically.

The bells ring daily, at 9 a.m., noon, 3 and 6 p.m. Preceding the tolling of the hour, a musical selection is played on the carillons.

An automatic switching device fades down the continuous interior background music, plays the carillon concert, and then brings the background music back to normal.

MOTTELL'S MORTUARY WAS FOUNDED in 1909. The chapel in traditional Spanish decor was added in 1926, and there have been several additions since. Eight visiting rooms, four arrangement rooms, a music room, a family room and a flower shop are all integrated into the complex.

Mottell's bells final touch to renovation

The Garden Room and Mission Room are both available to groups, clubs and organizations for use at no charge, said Ed Purnell, Mottell's public relations director.

The management at Mottell's believes the convenient downtown location, with three bus lines within a block's distance, helps to serve the people of Long Beach, the general manager said.

MOTTELL'S PRIDES ITSELF in its many years of family-oriented service to the Long Beach community. A desire to continue and magnify this service is prompting the extensive redecorating program now in progress, Minor said.

"We will continue with the warmth and beauty of the traditional Spanish decor," says Bud Minor, "but the most exciting part of this project so far has been the installation of the carillon bells and continuous background music."

Shapell launches apartment projects

On the heels of a booming surge into multi-family government assisted housing, Shapell Industries, Inc., is launching its move into apartment construction with a $6.4 million project.

Under the direction of John Konwiser, general manager, Shapell Developers has begun a 420-unit complex in Lakewood.

Located on the south side of Del Amo Boulevard, between Norwalk Avenue and Bloomfield Avenue, the family apartment complex will include 144 three-bedroom units, 225 two-bedroom units, and 51 one-bedroom apartments.

The buildings are two-story and three-story structures, with many bi-level units incorporated in the three-story buildings.

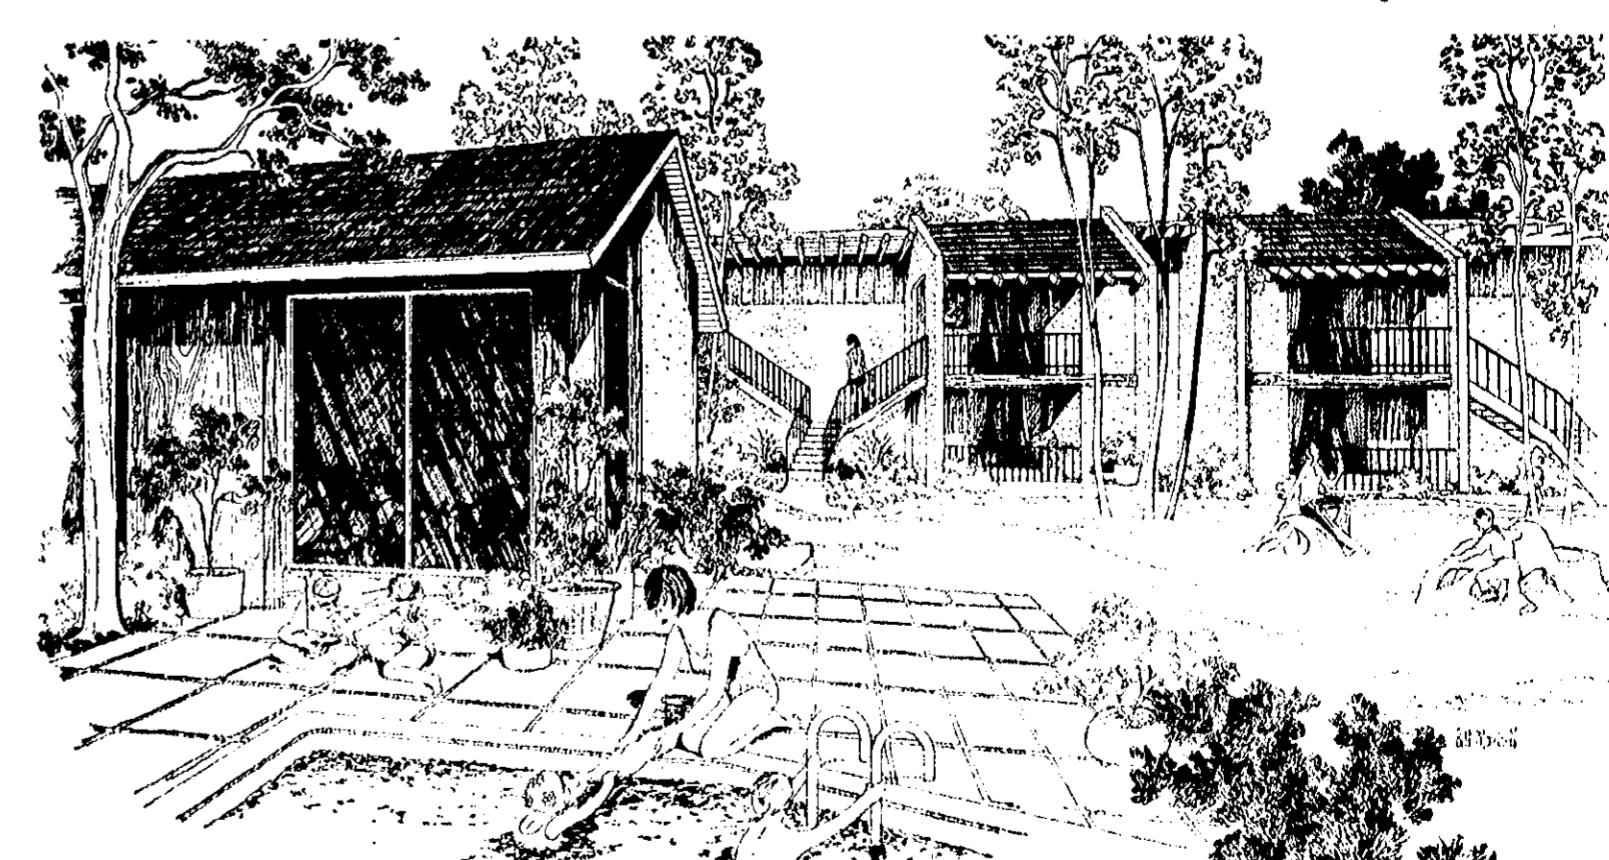

Each apartment will include individually-controlled heating and air-conditioning, dishwashers, carpeting, draperies and individual patios or balconies.

"THE MOST appealing aspect of this project," stated Konwiser, "is its excellent location for family convenience and safety. The complex shares a common border with the elementary school, and the other schools are all within one block.

"Next to the elementary school, also adjacent to our apartments, is a new park which is under development."

An important family feature in this 15-acre development will be a complete child care center with all associated play facilities for indoor and outdoor recreation.

This center will be professionally managed to provide expert daytime child care for working mothers.

Outdoor recreation facilities will include three swimming pools, a kiddie pool, volleyball court, basketball court, bicycle paths, jogging trails and children's play areas scattered throughout the project.

"WE HAVE carefully controlled the design of this complex," added Konwiser, "to create a positive and liveable environment for every family."

The apartments are roomy and comfortable, and we have incorporated streams, waterfalls, a large adult recreation building, even storage space designed for bicycles and tricycles."

The apartments will provide individual entrances, large dining rooms, maximum sound proofing, covered parking and complete laundry facilities, and many units include walk-in wardrobes or snack bars.

Insurance reform causes soul-searching on both sides

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

A lot has been said in recent weeks about the "runaway price" of auto insurance, prompted by solid moves to cut premium rates through the use of "no-fault" policies.

Backers of the reform argue—and they present facts—that "no-fault" insurance would eliminate the need for heavy payments to attorneys.

And spokesmen for the legal profession have cried out for the preservation of the old "now-let's-see-who's-at-fault" system.

But probably the best approach to the whole business comes this week from Consumers Union, which announced 14 criteria for auto insurance reforms to halt what it calls "the wave of millions of cancellations."

The CU plan adopts or modifies many of the features of four major "no-fault" proposals currently in circulation under which a driver does not have to prove another's negligence in order to recover the injury expenses paid out of his own pocket.

MAJOR REFORMS OF THE NONPROFIT organization's plan are:

Medical Care — All people injured in car accidents would receive the expenses of complete medical care, including rehabilitation — regardless of who caused the accident.

Wage Replacement — The equivalent of their take-home pay up to a maximum amount necessary for a decent standard of living would be provided to all disabled victims who cannot work, or their earning capacity if they are students or temporarily unemployed.

Periodic Payment — Monthly, instead of lump-sum, payment to meet expenses and wage loss would be provided all victims.

Other Insurance — Auto insurance benefits would not overlap medical or hospital policies, or other similar payments.

Cancellation — Policies must be noncancelable, guaranteed renewable, and available to all, thus eliminating "assigned risk" status.

In advocating the no-fault plan, Consumers Union says "the fault system of auto insurance has broken down." CU says the present system misdirects consumer expenditures and puts a heavy and costly burden on the time and facilities of the civil courts.

And, CU says, the present system is full of inequities. It cites Department of Transportation study that showed people who suffered less than $500 in injury costs collected an average of four times their loss, while those paying more than $25,000 in injury costs collected an average of only 15 per cent of their loss.

The federal study also showed—that when a highway accident takes more than $10,000 from the victim's pocket, only three victims in 10 recover more than half their loss, counting payments from sick-leave plans, social security, collision coverage and all other insurance.

THE CONSUMERS UNION insurance-reform proposals have the endorsement of the Consumer Federation of America.

The CFA membership represents some 30 million Americans and is comprised of state, local and national consumer organizations and encompasses voluntary organizations with a consumer interest, including many of the nation's leading labor unions.

CFA's executive director, Erma Angevine, said: "The time has come for a consumer crusade for significant auto insurance reform and our membership needs to be in the forefront of this fight."

The "no-fault" approach is a key principle of four pioneering auto insurance reform plans known as the Keeton-O'Connell plan, The American Insurance Association plan, the New York State plan, and the more recent plan sponsored by U.S. Senators Philip A. Hart and Warren G. Magnuson.

The Consumers Union plan would eliminate the $10,000 limitation in the no-fault benefits proposed by the Keeton-O'Connell plan, and its call for unlimited wage replacement for disabled victims is more extensive than all but the New York State plan.

The CU reform position expands on all but the Hart-Magnuson proposal to include a provision that auto insurance policies must be noncancelable and guaranteed renewable as long as premium payments are met. Insurance companies would have to sell coverage to everyone eligible to drive or own a car instead of only being required to take its share of "assigned risks."

IF POSSIBLE AT A REASONABLE premium, the new insurance would pay for more than out of pocket losses to all permanently disabled or disfigured victims. They would receive compensation for their pain and suffering as well.

Regulation of the insurance industry, its rates and practices would be moved to a new federal agency from the individual states.

Premium rates would be open to competition and every company would have to use the same rating system so that consumers could easily compare prices. The government would also publish data permitting consumers to judge the quality of an insurer's claim service.

Just the home for the family that always wanted to move to a better neighborhood is a new listing taken this week by Walker & Lee, Inc., the Anaheim-based real estate firm

It's a $225,000 custom-built beach house with a truly choice location: neighbors are the Richard Nixons.

Two doors from the Western White House in San Clemente, the 4,400-square-foot home occupies a prime oceanfront lot with a sweeping view of the coastline. Only four years old, it has five bedrooms, six baths, and a pool.

The home is not being sold for political reasons or because of straying golf balls, stresses William O. Thadard, executive vice president of Walker & Lee.

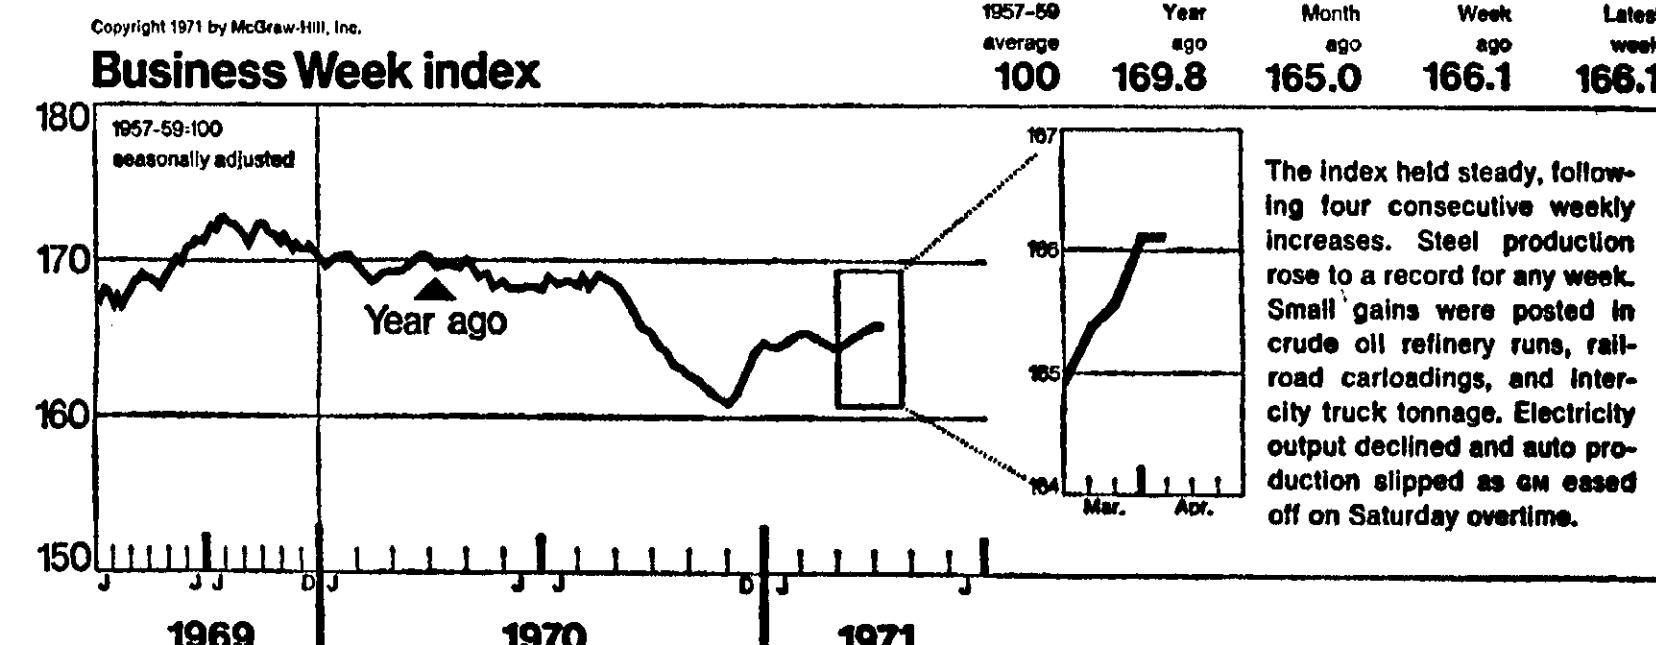

"The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cote — he's vice president of Tic Toc Markets — no longer need such a large home."

Business Week index

BUSINESS, INDUSTRY WEEK

Steel output at high level

Steel production — after an 0.8 per cent increase — stood at the highest weekly level in history, as customers prepared for a possible strike.

Auto production dropped 3.8 per cent, due in part to General Motors' easing off on Saturday overtime; American Motors production was affected by a suppliers strike.

Electricity went down 2.3 per cent and crude oil refinery runs rose 1.8 per cent.

Miscellaneous car loadings went up 2.3 per cent, due to increases in the transportation of other farm products — up 5.2 per cent, chemicals and allied products — up 4.2 per cent, and metals and products — up 5.5 per cent.

All other car loadings increased 2.1 per cent — a 10.9 per cent gain above a month ago. This rise was attributed to last week's increase in the transport of coal and non metallic materials, both up 3.0 per cent.

THE U.S. STEEL INDUSTRY'S net profit on sales in 1970 was the lowest since 1938 when the industry lost money, Industry Week reported this week.

Net profit on sales was an inglorious 2.65 per cent, the business magazine said in its annual financial analysis of the steel industry. The 1970 figure was sharply lower than 1969's 4.57 per cent.

Return on shareholders' equity also was unimpressive in 1970. From 1969's 6.89 per cent it slid to 3.97 per cent, a lower rate than investors could have earned on their money if it had been in savings accounts or in U.S. Treasury bills.

Ironically, the poor earnings performance followed a decade of huge expenditures for technologically updating the nation's steel industry, the magazine said.

It was costs that "did the industry in" during 1970, for it took in almost as many sales dollars that year as it did in 1969. Sales in 1970 totaled $21.2 billion compared with $21.3 billion in 1969.

Although steel prices were pretty well held in check by the industry in most of 1970, they were enough higher than 1969's to hold the 1970 dollar volume of sales about equal to that of 1969, for tonnage of steel shipments actually declined in 1970, as did raw steel production.

WORLD OF WHEELS

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Shell Oil Company has announced a new and improved additive package for its automotive gasoline. Shell engineers say it helps keep engines in tune for good mileage and fewer exhaust emissions.

The new additive package has been trade-named TCP/2. Besides providing the same function as TCP—Shell's additive that works to prevent spark plug fouling—TCP/2 contains a new detergent combination which can cut down harmful deposits in carburetors, say Shell officials. In addition, the components in TCP/2 can perform other functions, such as reducing carburetor icing and helping restore lost compression.

F. H. Staub, marketing vice president for Shell, said: "The introduction of TCP/2 is another step in our campaign to assist motorists to reduce automotive emissions and help improve gasoline mileage at the same time."

"Our research results show that TCP/2 can help by keeping engines in tune. In this way it can help reduce exhaust pollutants in many older cars and hold them down in newer ones," Staub said.

"With TCP/2 we've definitely moved forward in gasoline performances. Customers with new cars may not find improved performances right away, but those who own older cars that already have carburetor deposits should. The more deposits, the more likely their cars will benefit."

Staub said probably the most important thing the average motorist can do to reduce emissions is to get a tune-up and then keep his car in tune. He stated that more than half the cars on the road probably need a tune-up.

The new additive package is being used in all three of Shell's automotive gasolines. It performs a special function in Shell of the Future, also brand-named. Staub said a chemical element in TCP/2, when used in non-leaded Shell of the Future, works to protect exhaust valves against damaging wear, a function provided by the tetrachloro lead in leaded fuels.

The changeover to TCP/2 required the installation or enlargement of special additive blending and injection facilities. This was done at some 150 Shell distribution terminals across the country so that important ingredients in TCP/2 are blended at the distribution point rather than at the refinery. This helps insure maximum effectiveness of TCP/2 in Shell gasolines.

ley said. "That's the best two week period this year." The Landmark sales manager said that the Cerritos project has now sold well over half of its 115 homes.

Sheakley pointed out that a highly successful innovation called the "creative side yard" has been instrumental in boosting Landmark sales.

"We are the only project in the Cerritos area to have the creative side yard," Sheakley said. "It has really gone over big with prospective homebuyers."

THE NEW concept expands one side of the lot by a full five feet. The extra space is gained by moving the home to the other edge of the lot line. It eliminates two small side yards in preference for one large one.

The large yard now extends to the wall of the home next door. Since the wall of that home sits right on the property line and has no windows, there is complete privacy for the owner. The lots are fully fenced and maximum privacy is assured.

"The newly created side yard area may now have a multitude of uses," Sheakley said. "It can be used as an extended patio, a pool area, a garden, children's play area or for trailer or boat storage."

THE ONE and two story models are priced from $28,375. A 5 per cent down payment plan is available.

Included in the purchase price are forced air heating, fireplaces, acoustical ceilings, built-in television antennas and carpeting. Most plans have three car garages.

The amenities also include rear yard fencing complete with gate, front lawns and sprinklers, and patio kitchens with built-in double oven-range, disposal and dishwasher.

The development is a completely private walled community with underground utilities.

To reach the new Landmark Homes model area from the San Gabriel Freeway, take the Norwalk Boulevard exit south to South Street, then turn left to the five model homes.

Landmark Homes

By SIGNAL LANDMARK, INC. one of The Signal Companies PLANS BY R. J. MARVICK & ASSOC. MODEL HOMES BY BROWNIE ROWE INTERIORS

S&S opens lower-cost 51-home development in G. G.

Today in Garden Grove S&S Construction Co. opens a 51-home development marking the company's entry into the below $30,000 price range.

Called Gardenridge, this $1.5 million development will offer a selection of one-story, split-level and 2-story homes priced from $27,950.

Included in the base purchase price are home features such as wall-to-wall carpeting, complete rear yard fencing, concrete driveways, ceramic tile countertops in kitchen and bathrooms, ceramic tile shower and tub enclosures, and kitchens complete with hand-finished hardwood cabinets, automatic dishwasher and garbage disposal as well as electric range with hood.

FOUR home designs and twelve exteriors will be offered, ranging from a 1,300-square-foot three-bedroom model to an 1,800-square foot split-level with four bedrooms, 2½ baths and a 15' x 20' family room.

Four-bedroom, two-bath homes are available in a 1,500-square-foot plan or a 1,700-square-foot two-story plan with a 253-square foot living room.

Located on Buaro Street in Garden Grove, Gardenridge is surrounded by an elementary school, a junior high school and a proposed new regional park.

Many of the lots are extrawide, allowing ample room for storage of boats or campers.

"This development is a beginning of a new field of activity for our company," commented S & S Marketing Director Gerry Dirksen, "as we have become known as a high-quality, high-price builder."

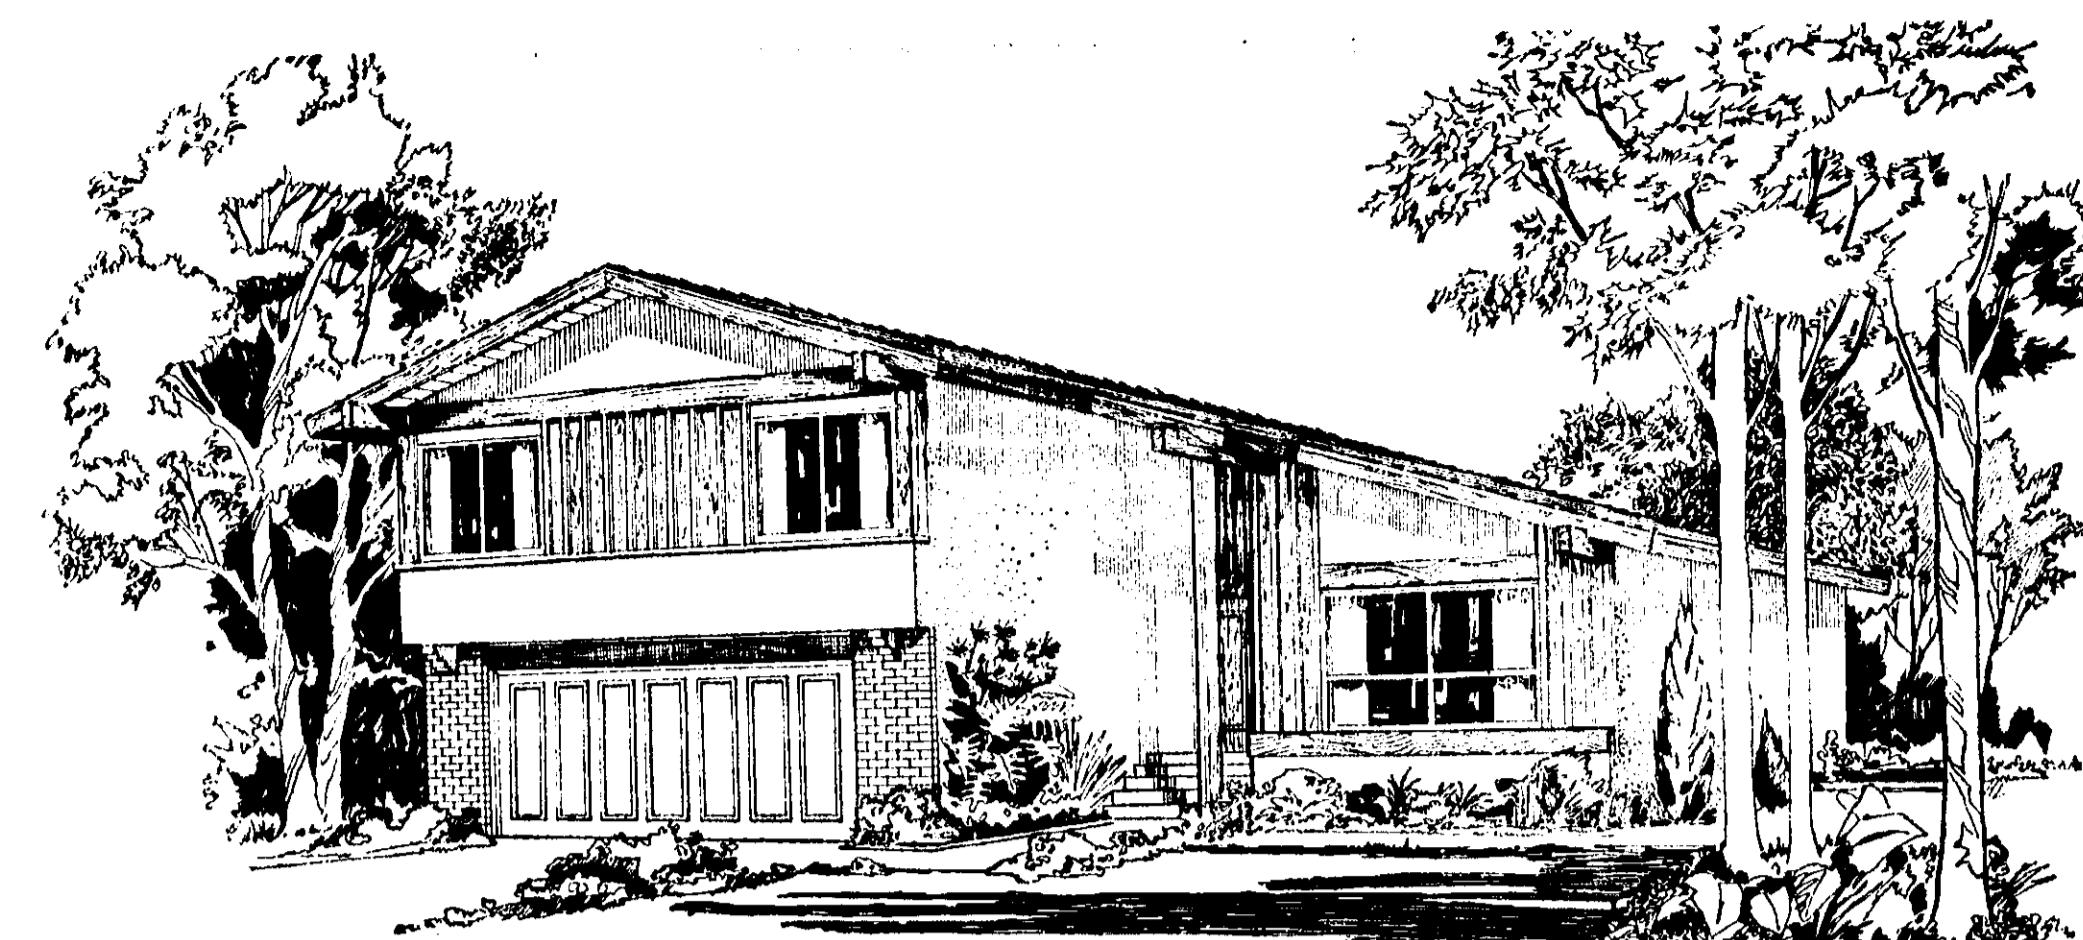

"We believe there will be an excellent market for homes at a slightly lower price which are still built to S & S quality standards."

"With the recent reductions in interest rates, families with monthly incomes of only $750 can now qualify for an S & S home. This has not been true for at least the past three years."

WITH MORE than 12,000 homes completed in Southern California, S & S has been honored by three Homeowner Association Awards for excellence in home construction, and has been cited three times for superior construction quality in the Congressional Record of the United States Congress.

Gardenridge is at the intersection of Buaro Street and Twintree Lane in Garden Grove, between Chapman Avenue and Lampson Avenue, just west of Harbor Blvd.

The sales office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Forms firm

OAKLAND (UPI) — Kaiser Aetna Land Development Co. announced it is joining I. C. Deal, a Dallas real estate operator, to form a new land development firm called Kaiser Aetna Texas, Inc.

A 104-acre tract in North Dallas will be developed by the new firm with apartment buildings, townhouses and commercial sites.

A 12-acre tract in Houston, on which 300 apartment units are already being built and a condominium development at Lake Tahoe, Nev., also will be taken over.

Once the warehouse expansion is completed, a new "easy flow" system will be put into operation.

One of the keys to the easy flow system will include new receiving and shipping ramps to be installed on the west and north sides respectively.

After expansion, the current warehouse space will be used for bulk items and the newly constructed area for hand picked items.

Regal Shoe to open in new center

Regal Shoe Shops, one of America's leading manufacturers and retailers of men's and young men's shoes, has joined the Orange Mall Regional Center.

Harry Newman Jr., president of Newman Properties, Long Beach, the center's developer, said Regal Shoe will help accomplish Orange Mall's goal of providing more fashion oriented stores than any other center.

Regal Shoe will stock nearly 500 individual shoe styles.

The footwear store will be one of the 80 specialty shops bordered by Sears and Broadway in the enclosed, carpeted mall.

Decorative and unique mobiles will add distinctive flourishes to the shopping center scheduled for Aug. 16 opening.

Retread rules more stringent come Aug. 1

New federal retread standards become effective Aug. 1, and the Tire Retreading Institute of Washington, D.C., is in a nationwide campaign to acquaint the public of the value of retreads.

According to John Gillette, owner of Johnny Gillette Tire Company, 3910 Cherry Ave., Long Beach, the program tells of an increasing number of motorists buying retreads produced from first-line tire casings, rather than new economy tires.

New inn

PHOENIX (UPI) — Ramada Inns., Inc., announced its international subsidiary will build a Ramada Inn in Brussels at a cost of $3 million to be operated by a wholly owned Belgian subsidiary.

will offer a selection of one-story, split-level and 2-story homes priced from $27,950.

Included in the base purchase price are home features such as wall-to-wall carpeting, complete rear yard fencing, concrete driveways, ceramic tile countertops in kitchen and bathrooms, ceramic tile shower and tub enclosures, and kitchens complete with hand-finished hardwood cabinets, automatic dishwasher and garbage disposal as well as electric range with hood.

FOUR home designs and twelve exteriors will be offered, ranging from a 1,300-square-foot three-bedroom model to an 1,800-square foot split-level with four bedrooms, 2½ baths and a 15' x 20' family room.

Four-bedroom, two-bath homes are available in a 1,500-square-foot plan or a 1,700-square-foot two-story plan with a 253-square foot living room.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Comprehensive Designers, Inc., has obtained a license to the Cobalt 60 process of treating sewage and other wastes for its subsidiary, Tampa Bay Engineering Co. of St. Petersburg, Fla. Tampa Bay will design and install plants to irradiate sewage with Cobalt 60, a radioactive substance used in treating cancer.

The technology was developed by Energy Systems, Inc., of Melbourne, Fla., which is operating a pilot plant at Palmdale, Fla. Energy System's staff is composed of scientists of Florida Institute of Technology. They said the Cobalt 60 radiation kills virtually all bacteria and many viruses found in sewage.

El Ray Park has charm of suburbia

El Ray Park, Boise Cascade's residential community in Cerritos, is in a growing community surrounded by established neighborhoods with all the charm of suburban living and the advantages of the cosmopolitan life.

The expanding city of Cerritos maintains a balance between residential, commercial and industrial development following a well-conceived and executed plan.

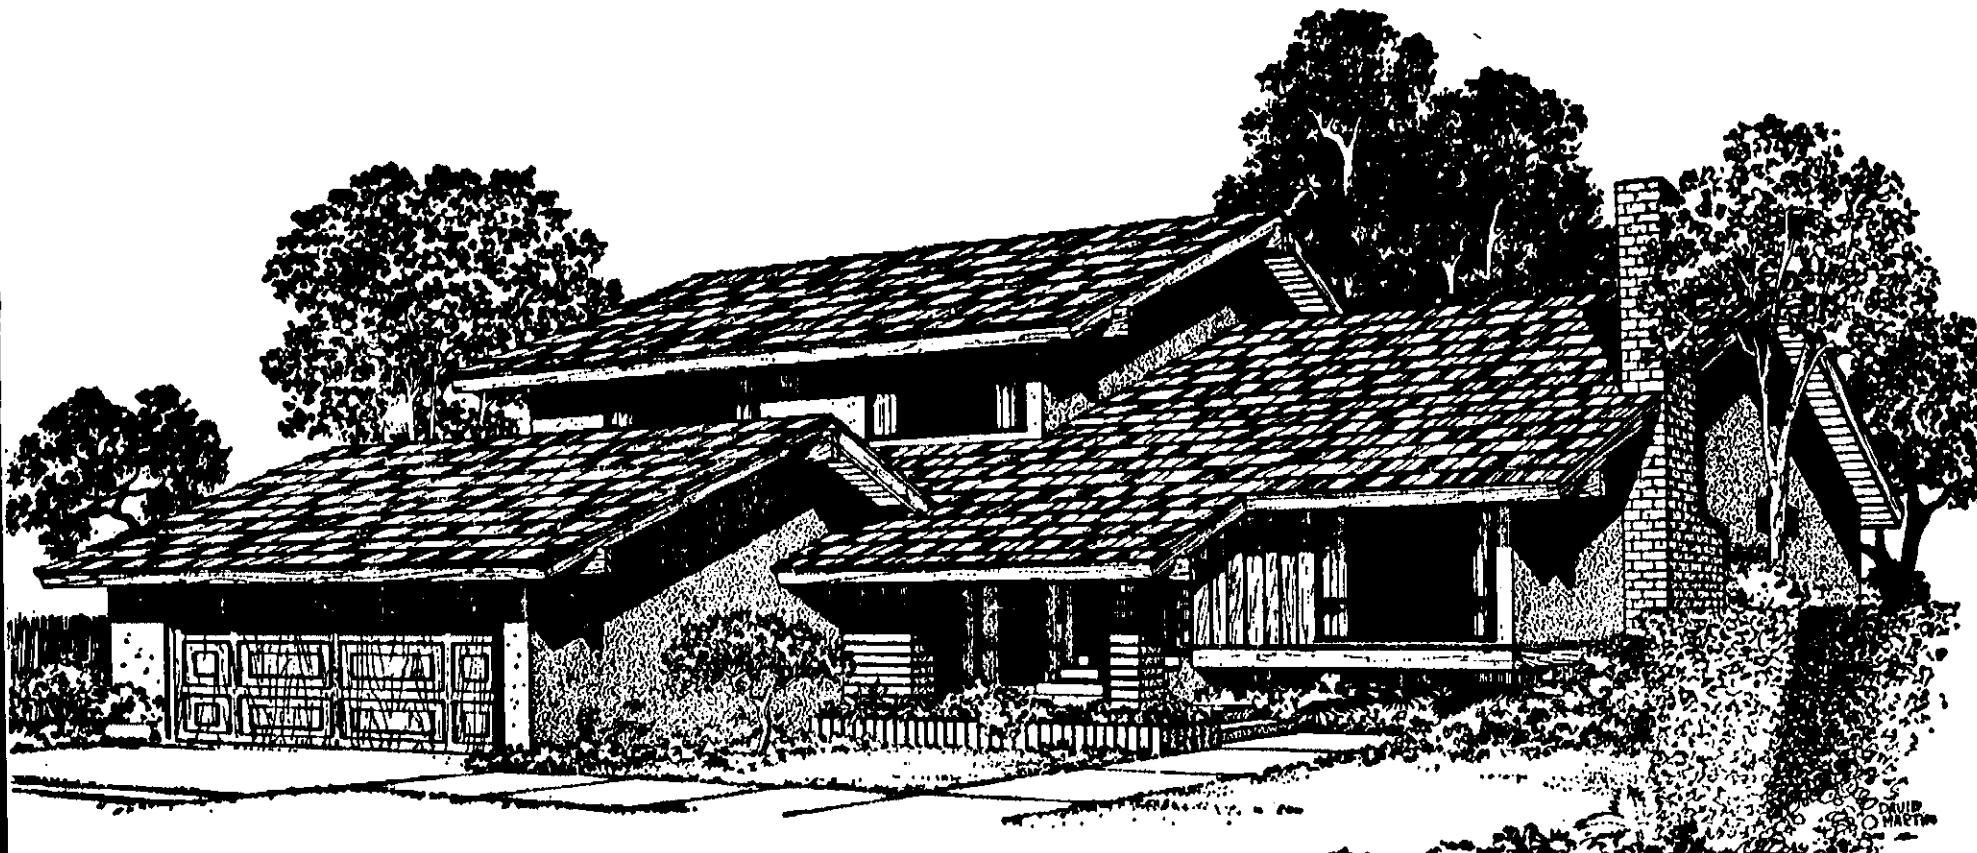

Next door is Lakewood with its parks, shopping and tree-lined streets. The large population centers of Orange and Los Angeles Counties are easy freeway drives from El Ray's location at 19322 Allingham Ave.

THE HOMES sell for $24,950 to $31,950, prices which include carpeting, drapes, fencing and landscaping.

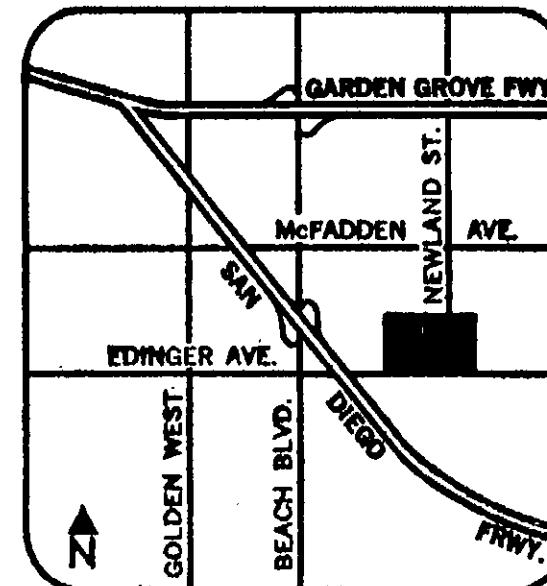

There are furnished and decorated model homes open daily to demonstrate the three and four bedroom plans available now.

The sales-information center is open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk and may be reached by driving from the Santa Ana or San Diego Freeways to the San Gabriel Freeway to South Street, west to Studebaker Road and south to the homes.

CHAIN-WIDE ADJUSTMENTS

Allumbaugh given post

Byron Allumbaugh has been appointed executive vice president of Ralphs Grocery Co., while three key members of the buying staff have been promoted to assistant vice presidents in a chain-wide series of adjustments to higher sales volume.

The three are Jack Hodges, Ralph Liebman and Edward Maron Jr.

Richard Ralphs, chairman of the board, made the announcement during a conference of the Los Angeles chain's store managers and other management members, held at Kellogg West, Cal Poly's newly opened facility near Pomona.

He served as meat director for eight years, then as vice president of store operations. His most recent title was vice president-marketing, with responsibility for Ralphs' buying, merchandising and advertising.

Allumbaugh lives in Anaheim.

ASSISTANT Vice President Hodges has been directing the buying and merchandising of produce for Ralphs since 1969.

Hodges lives in Manhattan Beach.

DIRECTOR OF OPERATIONS

Larwin tabs Froehlich

Bruce H. Froehlich has been appointed director of operations for Larwin Developments, Inc., the recreational second home community developer for The Larwin Group, Inc. of Beverly Hills.

Announcement was made by Jerry J. Berger, executive vice president of Larwin Developments.

"In his new position, Bruce will be responsible for the coordination of all operational functions, including engineering, improvements, facilities, and amenities in our leisure communities throughout California," Berger said.

LARWIN Developments' first recreation land project is Paradise Pines, located seven miles north of Paradise, in the "tall pine" country of the Sierras.

The Larwin Group, Inc. also has major divisions in singles and multi-family housing, financial services including mortgage banking and real estate investment trust management, and commercial and industrial property development.

Larwin is a subsidiary of CNA Financial Corporation, a Chicago-headquartered holding company with more than $3 billion in assets.

Knapp to Shapell

Charles W. Knapp was announced this week as president of Shapell Industries, Inc., residential housing producer.

Nathan Shapell, Knapp's predecessor as president, will continue as chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Knapp, 36, has been director of Shapell Industries since its incorporation, and prior to joining the company, was a general partner of Cumberland Associates, a private asset management and investment banking firm in San Francisco.

Earlier, Knapp was first vice president of Shearson, Hammill & Co., and headed that firm's western investment banking operations.

He attended the University of Utah and Hastings College of Law, University of California.

IN HIS announcement, Shapell stated: "Knapp has been both an active director and general advisor to management since our initial public offering. With his broad knowledge of the company's affairs and a wealth of experience in the corporate world, Knapp brings to the company both the expertise and leadership which we welcome with great enthusiasm."
